(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 1—Charging "spoils politics" have been injected into the system of old age and blind pensions and mothers' assistance, Margaret Steel Moss resigned today as head of the system in the department of welfare. Her salary was $4200 a year.

In a two-page letter to Secretary of Welfare, Dr. J. Evans Scheehle, which she also sent to newspapers, Miss Moss, who has been with the department for 14 years, detailed dismissals of two of her field staff and asserted:

"You (Dr. Scheehle) tell me that the dismissal of qualified, experienced persons without cause resulted from orders that you felt you could not disregard.

Spoils System

"I, however, cannot disregard the fundamental issue of the injection of spoils politics into welfare service of which these dismissals are convincing evidence."

Secretary Scheehle would not comment on the letter nor on Miss Moss' resignation.

Prior to her resignation, Miss Moss threatened to quit unless

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Out at McConnell's Mills, mecca yesterday for hundreds someone has painted, in bold, white lettering, several words across the face of some of the more conspicuous boulders near the covered bridge. It is likely the lettering will be hard to erase. The scenic gorge needs protection from any who would thus mar its beauty.

It's tomorrow that the shouting and tumult begins at Camp Fred L. Rentz—tomorrow opens the 1935 season. The Y. M. C. Marquis Ends Long Service For Schools

After serving the New Castle school district loyally as secretary and business manager for 23½ years, Hugh M. Marquis, known to all who have school contacts here, had officially retired today, because of age requirements.

Officially, he had retired and John B. Bechtol had assumed the responsible duties he relinquishes. Unofficially, Mr. Marquis was still at his office today "working for nothing and for the good of the cause" and finishing up a lot of details.

"No, I won't be around here very long," said the retired secretary as he placed familiar books on shelves and dug records for this and that for the last time of his efficient, faithful career.

"There's a lot of details to handle and I'm getting them out of the way," he added.

Attempt To Oust New York Mayor Fails Of Purpose

Supreme Court Justice Decides Against Ouster Suit By Taxpayer

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 1—An attempt to remove New York's stocky fusion mayor from office flopped today on the eve of what is hinted will be "another Seabury investigation."

Supreme court justice Salvatore A. Cotillo decided against a taxpayer's suit to oust Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia on the grounds he was holding two offices in violation of the city charter.

The suit, brought by Bennett E. Aron, Brooklyn attorney and former deputy police commissioner alleged that La Guardia by accepting a post on the federal works relief advisory allotments committee violated a provision of the city charter which strictly forbids any city officer to hold a state or federal job even without pay.

Political observers regarded the decision as the second smashing blow against Tammany, La Guardia's bitter enemy, in less than a week. It followed on the heels of a demand by Governor Lehman for appointment of Thomas E. Dewey, a Republican, as a special prosecutor to conduct an investigation into vice and racketeering in New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Windl, and son Gordon, of Northview avenue, left today on a motor trip to Jefferson, Wis.

Tin Workers Picnic Event Fine Success

Huge Crowd Attends Outing At Cascade Saturday Afternoon

PUBLIC WEDDING NOTABLE FEATURE

Program Of Sports And Other Events Is Carried Out As Scheduled

Perfect weather overhead brought the perfect picnic to the tin workers of New Castle Saturday June 29, when the annual Tin Workers Day was held. Not a cloud marred the sky and not an untoward incident marred the picnic from the time it started until the last tired picnicker had wended his way home.

The day started with a mammoth parade over the downtown streets. Floats and bands and marchers combined to give New Castle a spectacle it won't forget in some time and immediately after the parade Cascade Park began filling up.

Athletic Sports

At one-thirty the water sports began at the Billy Glenn pool with Jack Herbert, Jack Hulme and James Sotus in charge. A detailed account of the winners is found below. At two o'clock David Clements and his committee ran off the track sports at the southern entrance to the park and the results of these races are also found at the bottom of this article.

In the meantime the gorge ride, the merry-go-round, the dodgem, and the other amusement concessions were doing a land office business. At five-thirty the wedding of Miss Ruth Greer, an employe of the assorting room of the Shenango Works, and Theodore Haas, a hot mill employe, was solemnized in the band stand.

Few weddings in New Castle have been attended by a larger crowd. The midway was jammed, the hillsides were covered, and the crowd watching the wedding must have been eight thousand in size.

The bride had for her maid of honor, her sister, Miss Thelma Greer, while Edward Martin acted as best man. The bridesmaids were the Misses Ann Yesenski, Mary Dugan, Ann Chabak, Ann Tizak, Tillie Balogh, and Betty Stransky. Little Bunny Greer acted as train bearer. The bride and her attendants were garbed in white and carried Talisman roses.

Rev. Johnstone officiates

The wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. C. M. Johnstone of the Central Christian church. The happy couple was the recipient of many worthwhile gifts. The mill employes gave them a bedroom suite, the girls of the assorting room gave them a breakfast set and a set

STRIKE POSTPONED BUT ORDER REACHES NO. 2 MEN TOO LATE

Probing Stories Told By Suspect In Detroit Crime

Officers Make Search For Schweitzer's Auto In Hope Of Solving Murder

FOUR ARE HELD BY POLICE OF DETROIT

Man Sought Was Apprehended In Ft. Wayne, Accompanietd By Three Women

(International News Service)

DETROIT, Mich., July 1. While William Schweitzer, 26-year-old hoodlum suspect in the Howard Carter Dickinson murder mystery, gave three different and conflicting versions as to how the prominent New York attorney met death, police today began a search in Chicago for Schweitzer's automobile, believed to obtain important clews to the slaying.

It was in the automobile, according to all of Schweitzer's stories, that Dickinson was shot to death. He told police that he had left it in a southside garage in Chicago. Detective chief Fred Frahm believed that the car might contain the death weapon or money taken from Dickinson's body although the suspect denied the attorney was robbed.

Meantime, County Prosecutor Duncan McCrea branded as "ridiculous" Schweitzer's statements that the attorney had shot himself.

McCrea's opinion was corroborated by Dr. R. Robert Kallman, county medical examiner, who performed the post-mortem on the slain man's body.

Suicide Eliminated

"Suicide is eliminated as a theory by the fact that either one of the two shots would have been fatal," Dr. Kallman said. "In other words, Dickinson would not have been alive to fire the second shot. The location of the wounds (one in the body and one in the head) also discounts a suicide theory.

"I have an idea that Dickinson was shot quietly with no idea as to what was coming. If there had been a tussle, his body would have been marked with scratches. There were no marks.

"Also, the bullet penetrating his left side went through his right arm. This could not have happened in a struggle, his arm was stationary at his side."

Murder Charge

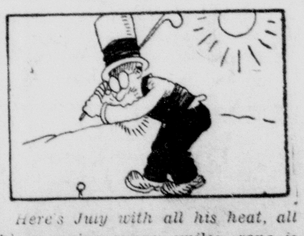

Detroit, Mich., July 1—While William Schweitzer, pasty-faced young hoodlum flippantly gave police three versions of the slaying of Howard Carter Dickinson, prominent New York attorney, county Prosecutor Duncan C McCrea announced that a murder warrant would be issued against the alleged killer today.

Three women, Florence and Loretta Jackson, 24 and 27 year old red headed sisters and Jean Miller, 24, who were arrested with Schweitzer when he was captured at Fort Wayne, Ind., were booked at police headquarters as material witnesses.

Permanent Enrollment Of Voters In New Castle Is Required By New State Law Just Enacted

HARRISBURG, July 1—Legislation for permanent personal registration of voters in Pennsylvania's 44 third-class cities became effective today. (New Castle is a third class city.)

With prior enrollment void, the new law directs that voters be registered permanently this summer. Thereafter they need not register again while they continue to reside at the same address, unless the registration is cancelled by failure to vote during a period of two years." Annual enrollments are discontinued by the law.

Changes in address or in party enrollment in the future can be made by notice to the county commissioners and a voter whose registration is cancelled for failure to vote can register anew upon application to the commissioners.

No separate registration commission for third-class cities is created by the law. County commissioners will act in that capacity in all counties containing third-class cities.

To conduct the first registration this year, the commissioners will name two registrars for each voting division to serve on the 1935 registration days. One will be chosen from the party having the largest 1934 enrollment and the other from the party having the second high enrollment in the division. The registrars will be chosen from lists submitted by county chairmen of the political parties, unless the chairmen fail to submit such lists before June 15.

Must Sign Card

The 1935 registration, to list all voters, will occur on three days prior to September 4, the dates to be chosen by the county commissioners, and on those days the registrars will be on duty in each precinct. All new registrations after this year, as well as changes in the 1935 records, will be by application to the commissioners at their of-

TRAFFIC HEAVY; FEWER DEATHS

More Caution Is Used By Drivers

Heaviest Toll Is Taken In Immediate Pittsburgh District

EASTERN DISTRICT HAS GOOD ECORD

(International News Service)

Caution marked automobile travel on Pennsylvania's highways over the week-end. Although travel was heavy, fatalities amounted to only five and the number of crashes dropped considerably.

For the third consecutive week-end, the highways of the Philadelphia metropolitan district were free of motor car fatalities despite heavy Sunday traffic. In the most serious accident in Philadelphia a 16-year-old high school student, Joseph Sobel, was critically injured when his new car collided with a fire truck. Four others were hurt in the crash.

Although several persons were hurt in crashes in the central Pennsylvania section, no fatalities were immediately reported.

In Pittsburgh District

Automobiles brought death to four persons in the Pittsburgh district over the week-end.

Dorothy Jordan, three, McKeesport, died in a hospital after being hit by an automobile driven by William D. Pratt, McKeesport, who was arrested. Police said the child ran in front of his car.

Struck by a hit-run driver while repairing a broken fender, Joseph Oldynski, 24, Pittsburgh, died of a fractured skull before reaching a hospital.

Charles Blackward, 21, Pittsburgh, died of a fractured skull received when his automobile overturned. Andrew Kiesel, died from injuries received when hit by a machine Wednesday.

Clifford Lillebridge, 36, a volunteer fireman of Port Allegany, was crushed to death when he slipped and fell from a fire truck.

Four Jeannette persons were injured, two seriously, when a wheel dropped off their machine.

Seems that "Penny" a wire haired terrier, made her escape through the attic window, and apparently was unaware of the danger of falling, as she was running around the house on this very narrow ledge, as fast as she dared too, and was enjoying herself. Pa Newc is most grateful to George Fisher, Sr. for his discovery, as "Penny" is a devoted and much loved pup.

The highways were heavily traveled Sunday, as the exceptionally warm weather gave the idea to all car owners that a drive in the country would be cooling. License plates from all over the state, were noticed, and many of them carried camping outfits, indicating vacationists.

Heat of the past few days has resulted in an advance on the bathing pools and swimming holes around the city. The first real warm wave of the season is now being experienced.

Today the last of the C. M. T. C. youths will leave New Castle for their camp at Fort George Meade, which is located at Baltimore, Md.

A great many water bugs have begun to come down the river and they gather on the lighted store windows in large swarms every night.

And another public recreation need of the city is a tennis court which would be centrally located. Other cities have them located behind their high schools.

Two of the rockets which were being shot on Saturday evening at Cascade park went haywire and failed to go off as intended. One of them fell and exploded on an automobile in the midst of the watching crowd. It seared the paint on the car but did no real damage.

And by the way, what's become of the bell that was in the tower of the old fire station on East street?

New Castle's last official Fourth of July celebration took place 25 years ago, Pa Newc is informed. The day's program included a wire walking stunt over Washington street, near City hall, and other features, of this sort, and concluded with a fireworks display on what is now Laurel boulevard.

Scores of New Castle fishermen were out today, both in county streams and at more distant points, for the opening of the bass fishing season. Conditions were just about right for the sport, Pa News was told by a fisherman.

Pa Newc is certainly enthused about the way the lawn at the East Brook school is kept. It's about as fine a piece of work as one could desire.

A brook trout about 15 inches in length is reported seen in the Neshannock near the city, by a fisherman.

Under the new police cruiser car system of patrolling the city, police are found in all sections of the city at numerous periods of the day, a situation that did not prevail under the old plan where officers walked a beat.

Sometime since Saturday afternoon, the eggs of the Nighthawk, upon which the mother bird has been sitting for more than two weeks, on the roof of the old post office, hatched out. The young birds are evidently quite active as soon as they are hatched out, as they could not be located Sunday afternoon by occupants of the Greer building, who have been watching the mother bird through field glasses, but they were discovered at a different location this morning, and the little fledglings were moving about and stretching their wings. In a few more days, they will probably be gone. The young birds are grey in color, while the mother bird is speckled much like a bantam hen.

Signs were changed at all of the gas stations in the county today. An additional cent state tax is added, as a result of the new tax law becoming effective today. The funds will be utilized for relief work.

Among the early fisherman out this morning was Ray F. Hall, manager of the New Castle Credit Exchange, who is camping at Cochranton, on French Creek. Mr. Hall caught a 14-inch bass just after daylight this morning, which the Hall family enjoyed for breakfast.

PERMANENT ENROLLMENT OF VOTERS REQUIRED

fices, and registrars will not be on duty in the precincts after the first roster is completed this year.

Upon application for registration, the voters will be required to sign a card, which becomes a permanent registration record. In the form of an affidavit, the card lists the voter's name, occupation, residence, sex, place of birth, color and party preference. If the voter is unable to sign his name, the record also will disclose that fact, and his height, color of hair and eyes and age.

When appearing to vote, the citizen will be required to sign his name again, for identification and protection against fraud. Other checks to prevent padded registration and to purge lists, require weekly reports of deaths and registrars of vital statistics, a check by mail sent to the voter at the address listed at least once in four years and a personal visit by a registration inspector where the mail is returned as undeliverable.

Duties of registration inspectors also include investigation of any question relating to registration in pursuance of which they may enter and inspect any hotel lodging house or inn, question any lodger, employee, or owner regarding persons living there and need not have a warrant to do so. They also are empowered to inspect the register of any hotel or lodging house to ascertain whether persons enrolled from that address actually reside there, and to call upon police for aid in keeping the peace at any place of registration.

Any party or body of electors or "organized body of citizens having as its purpose the investigation and prosecution of election frauds" may recommend electors to act as watchers at registration places, or at sessions of the county commissioners when acting as a registration commission.

Ample provision is made for challenging the right of any elector to register, or for appeal by any elector denied registration.

Starting in 1937 the commissioners after each election are required to notify all persons who have not voted in two years that their registration will be cancelled unless they appear within ten days to obtain reinstatement. Cancellation will not prevent subsequent re-registration by the voters.

Persons who make a wilful false statement incident to registration will be subject to $500 fine and two years in jail. The commissioners and their employees face fines of $1,000 or two years in jail for conviction of registering persons not entitled, refusal to register persons who are entitled to be enrolled, or padding the lists with names of persons who did not make a proper application for registration.

Wilkinsburg Pastor Is Out

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 1—Storm-center of charges of "extraordinary nature" that rocked his congregation and finally found his resignation, Rev. John Franklin Troupe, today no longer was pastor of Wilkinsburg's Second Presbyterian church.

After his sermon Sunday—his last by request—Rev. Troupe was believed by church attaches to have gone to his farm near Philadelphia while the question of whether he will seek a pastorate elsewhere remained problematical. Another minister will be named to his empty study.

Rev. George E. Davies, pastor of the Tarentum Presbyterian church, who announced the forced resignation, headed the Pittsburgh Presbytery committee named to attempt adjustment of differences between the minister and his church session and which climaxed in a recommendation that Rev. Troupe resign.

MARQUIS ENDS LONG SERVICE FOR SCHOOLS

exactly fill Marquis' eyes with the twinkle most everyone would think it might.

"Probably about the middle of July," he said, "I'm going up to the Pennsylvania club in Canada and might stay there for four weeks. Oh, I don't know how long I'll be there."

Many a summer Marquis has left for a vacation in the restful Canadian woods.

Today was Mr. Bechtol's first day for affixing his own signature to papers. While he has been in Mr. Marquis' office since April 1, the papers were signed by Marquis because his term did not close until Saturday.

Marquis was extolled for his service by members of the board of education at their last meeting, at which he formally read the act which called for his retirement.

Outside of the Canadian trip, the retiring secretary asserted he has "no particular plans" for the future.

RESIGNS STATE JOB CHARGING SPOILS POLITICS

Helen Glenn Tyson was reinstated as director of community work in the department. Miss Tyson was dismissed about a month ago.

"In the past every member of the field staff of the division has been selected for the service she could render and for that reason only," Miss Moss wrote Scheehle.

"These workers have not played politics. They have been interested only in giving the best possible service to the needy persons for whom the three funds were created."

"It seems to me that under the present circumstances to continue as head of the division of assistance would be to acquiesce in a system of administration that violates all the fine traditions of service of the mothers assistance fund organization and is a deliberate betrayal to the mercy of "spoils politics," of the widows, the blind and aged whom we are obligated to serve."

and once acquitted of a murder charge, McCrea promised that "I will do all possible to protect the name of this man who is not here to defend himself against the stories told by Schweitzer and the women."

At the same time, McCrea stated, "I believe more can be told of this strange story."

Found Shot To Death

Dickinson, a nephew of Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes of the United State supreme court, who had come to Detroit to investigate the claim against the $40,000,000 estate of the late William Yawkey, lumber baron, was found shot to death on a lonely road Thursday morning.

In one of the three versions of Dickinson's death, the hoodlum told police he had shot Dickinson during a scuffle for a gun that climaxed a dice game. In the other two he alleged the prominent New York attorney shot himself. Police said all of the statements were misleading.

Briefly his stories were:

1. He quarreled with Dickinson over $4 in a dice game. Dickinson threatened him with a gun and during the scuffle he was shot.

2. Dickinson shot himself. "I reached for the gun and got excited and shot him twice more," Schweitzer said.

3. "I heard a shot in the rear of the car. I reached for Dickinson when he was slumping to the floor. Then the gun went off again."

Stories Of Women

Stories given by the three women, all entertainers in cheap beer gardens, were virtually the same with Detective Chief Fred Frahm stating he believed they had been carefully rehearsed in advance.

They said they had started on an automobile ride with Schweitzer and Dickinson after a drinking party in Schweitzer's hotel room. After reaching an isolated spot near Rouge Park here, the car was stopped while the girls got out.

They heard the shots but did not see Dickinson die, they claimed. After the shooting, the body of Dickinson was left at the roadside and Schweitzer and the girls, after obtaining clothing, fled to Chicago, hid there in a north side apartment for a day and then fled to Fort Wayne separately.

Gun Not Found

In all of his declarations, Schweitzed claimed that Dickinson was the owner of the death weapon. The gun has not been found. Neither has Schweitzer's car, a dark, 1929 sedan, and Schweitzer refused to say where he had left the machine.

Dickinson's widow and son, the latter Howard Jr., denied in dispatches to Detroit police that Dickinson had owned a gun.

"He neither owned nor carried one," the widow said.

"And he would not have known how to use one if someone gave it to him," the son added.

Schweitzer made no mention of robbery during any of his recitals.

Detective Chief Frahm said he did not believe that the lawyer had shot himself.

All of the four prisoners said that Dickinson had become acquainted with them as Schweitzer and the two sisters were dining at a downtown hotel Tuesday evening. Dickinson, they claimed, had come over to their table and offered to buy them a drink. Later the two girls went to Dickinson's room, where more drinking occurred and the arrangements made for the fatal party Wednesday night.

Police were puzzled, however, as to why the attorney, from a conservative, aristocratic family, would step so completely out of character as to associate with the petty underworld figure and the three girls.

All four of the persons arrested in the case were taken at Ft. Wayne, Ind., late Saturday.

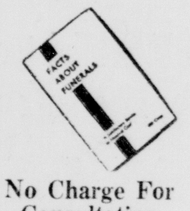

Pleasant Valley, Conn., July 1—Simple, private funeral and burial services attended by members of the immediate family and a few close friends, were held in this picturesque Litchfield county town Sunday for Howard Carter Dickinson, New York attorney, slain last week in Detroit.

Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, Dickinson's uncle, Mrs. Hughes, Dickinson's parents, Chas. E Hughes, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Dickinson, Jr. of New York, their two children, and Mr. and Mrs. Van Sicle of Ovid, N. Y., sister and brother-in-law of the slain man, were present.

TRANQUILLO-MARINO WEDDING ELABORATE

Two of New Castle's most prominent Italian families were united today, when Miss Clara Lillian Tranquillo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Humbert Tranquillo, of 5 East Home street, became the bride of Anthony Thomas Marino, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lucian Marino, 717 Superior street, at one of the largest and most elaborate wedding ceremonies in Italian history, taking place in St. Vitus church. High mass was celebrated at 10:00 o'clock, with the Rev. Fr. Nicholas DiMita officiating with the single ring service, assisted by the Rev. Fr. Albert Farina and Nicholas Biondi.

Guests numbering a thousand witnessed the impressive exchange of vows, in a setting of decorative beauty, the altar being almost entirely hidden with a profusion of Madonna and Easter waxen lilies, white carnations and zinnias, intermingled with graceful palms and cibotium ferns, arranged with skill by the florist. Most unique was the trellis and double archway in the aisle, entwined with white roses, carnations and greenery, through which the bridal party proceeded to the altar. A white canopy from the walk to the church, including another flower decorated arch, was used also, and wall pockets of flowers adorned the aisle seats.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, Humbert Tranquillo, was stunning in a white satin gown, fashioned on regency lines, with high cowl neck, caught with a diamond jeweled clip, her only piece of jewelry, and a gift of the groom. The sleeves were long, and extended over the hands in points, and the full skirt was made with an extremely long train. Her veil of tulle, cap shape, with clusters of orange blossoms on either side, had the conventional long train. Her arm bouquet was of orchids and valley lilies, caught with white satin streamers.

Twelve year old Rita Granata, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Granata, of this city, filled the role of guide, and she led the bridal party, wearing a blue net frock and carrying a cane and a bouquet of roses and delphinium. Little Louise Pagley, three years of age, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roxy Pagley, was trainbearer, and she too, wore a dainty dress of blue net.

Miss Emma D'Elena of Brooklyn, New York, as maid of honor, wore peach lace, with ankle length skirt and bolero jacket, with long sleeves and a large blue picture horsehair hat. Other accessories were of poudre blue. She carried an arm bouquet of delphinium and Talisman roses.

Completing this bridal picture were eight bridesmaids, all wearing blue lace gowns, contrasting to the maid of honor's, patterned on the same princess lines with jackets to be removed in the evening for the reception, making their ensembles formal. Accessories were carried out in a rich shade of peach, including large picture hats of horsehair. Each carried blue delphinium and Johanna Hill roses, with streamers to match. In this group were: Mary Canami, Catherine Augostine, Margaret Brasile, Phyllis Gaspare, Phyllis Scungio, Elizabeth Bosco, Christine DeCarbo and Veronica Paluse.

Angelo J. Casacchia, of New Castle, served the groom as best man, and ushering were the following: Frederick DeCarbo, Patrick Pisula, Alfred Fabian, Frank Merando, Frank Leonard, Thomas Maielli, Thomas Magliery, all of New Castle, and Carmen Marino, of Cleveland, Ohio. The male attendants wore formal tuxedos, with gardenia boutonnieres.

For the wedding, the bride's mother wore a gray crepe afternoon dress, with white accessories, and the groom's mother chose a black and white gown, and white accompaniments. For evening, at the reception, both selected black formals, with corsages of white roses.

At noon a wedding dinner was served in King Humbert hall to a hundred guests, and in the evening at 7 o'clock a reception will be held, at the Castleton hotel, at which six hundred or more will participate. Beautiful floral docorations will add to the setting of the spacious ball room of the hotel for this feature.

The cake used for the wedding dinner, and displayed at the reception in The Castleton, is the largest ever made, consisting of twelve layers, and being elaborately decorated in white nuptial motifs.

Shortly before midnight the bride and groom will leave for a wedding trip to Canada and other points of interest, returning here in a week or ten days. For traveling, Mrs. Marino wore a yellow crepe ensemble, with sand brown accessories and a shoulder corsage of orchids.

They will take up residence at 219 East street, their newly furnished home where a number of the magnificent gifts have found a place, given them at parties, showers and dinner affairs by their hosts of friends since the announcement of the betrothal.

The bride is a graduate of New Castle high school with the class of '27, and received her diploma from Beckley college at Harrisburg in '30. She is a member of Beta Chi Gamma sorority, and since her graduation from college, she has been a member of the Senior high and Benjamin Franklin Junior high school teaching staffs. The groom graduated from the local high school and attended Kiski Prep school. He is affiliated with the Johnson Bronze company as night superintendent of the brass foundry.

Guests at the wedding from out of town were: Mrs. Anna D'Elena and Miss Emma D'Elena of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Mrs. Jenne Feola and daughter of Rochester; Mr. and Mrs. Peter Marino and Carmen Marino of Cleveland, O. Others were present from Moween, Youngstown, O., and Port Jefferson, N. Y.

SPEEDY STATE COURT ACTION

THE state supreme court has acted speedily in two matters of concern to the people of Pennsylvania in upholding the constitutionality of the anti-party raiding act and the $50,000,000 tax-anticipation bill.

In dismissing the plea asking that the anti-party raiding act be declared unconstitutional, the court bars the questionable practice of candidates running in other primaries than that of the party in which they are enrolled.

Legality of the $50,000,000 tax-anticipation bill enables the state to borrow up to that amount for expenses, repayable from future tax receipts. The decision allows provision against pressing demands upon the treasury and removes difficulties caused by existing debt provisions.

SWELTERING DAYS

June was ushered out by a heat wave sufficiently scorching to start a front-porch theory that the summers are getting hotter. Such things usually start with less foundation.

If things go quite that far, at least everyone is convinced that this presages an extremely hot summer. An early blast of cold late last fall was seen as a sign of a long, cold winter, but the winter turned out mild and short in most sections of the country.

The sixth month of the year is normally quite moderate in its moods in this climate. Summer usually doesn't get its furnaces going full blast until early July.

Disastrous wind and electric storms accompanied the heat, and yet the farmers haven't complained. Anything is preferable to the great drought of 1934.

NEED TO ADVERTISE STATE

Several states, including Michigan, New York, Colorado and Massachusetts, have launched campaigns to "sell" their states to the traveling public.

Meanwhile, Pennsylvania is sitting back and depending upon word-of-mouth advertisingg to spread the advantages of its many beautiful rivers, mountains and forest parks. This commonwealth has as much to offer the tourist as any state in the East. But few outside of Pennsylvania know it.

We do not suggest that the state spend millions of dollars for advertising purposes at a time when money is urgently needed for other purposes. But a small appropriation for this purpose would be, we believe, a good investment. It would attract enough tourist trade to pay for itself in short order.

GOOD ADVICE FROM BYRNS

The words of Speaker Byrns on the future of congress will send a sympathetic echo ringing about the land. "We ought to dispose of all possible legislation now," he said a day or two ago, "and give business and the country a chance to know what to figure on."

This is sound and timely advice. The presentation of the president's tax program suggests the possibility that congress may remain in session all summer. So long as congress remains in session and the country is filled with talk and fears of new taxes, interferences and inhibitions, business is certain to be restrained from advancing to recovery.

There are many heartening signs of better times, including continued industrial activity and failure of the anticipated seasonal decline to materialize. Business leaders, however, are either timid or cautious. They insist upon knowing just what lies ahead. And while congress continues in session the future is unpredictable.

PUBLIC HEALTH ADVANCE

Public health work in its first phases dealt primarily with pure water supply and proper sewage disposal. Then it took up garbage collection and quarantine of contagious diseases. Now public health officials believe it is time to extend the work. The National Health Council seeks to arouse public interest in an enlarged program and has inaugurated a five-month national campaign for the purpose.

Effort will be made to promote such special objectives in local communities as their own health and social agencies consider desirable. The campaign will be carried forward chiefly in about 400 cities where health and social organizations have already promised co-operation. The drive will end in October with open town meetings for popular discussions of public health. An example of the specific aims to be emphasized is "the elimination of cripples from diabetes or heart disease."

Much progress has been made in the healing or relieving of many diseases, but even greater progress perhaps has been made in the prevention of certain diseases formerly considered inescapable human afflictions. Work already done in this line justifies further effort and promises further accomplishment.

"BRUISE EASY, BUT HEAL QUICK"

In the course of his campaign speeches in 1932, President Roosevelt overlooked no opportunity to assail the Hoover administration for what he termed its "spending proclivities." He pledged a 25 per cent reduction in the cost of government, if elected. Indeed, his pledge of economy became one of the outstanding promises of the campaign. Said Mr. Roosevelt:

"I accuse the present administration of being the greatest spending administration in peace times, in all our history—one which has piled bureau on bureau, commission on commission, and has failed to anticipate the dire needs of reduced earning power of the people . . . regard reduction in Federal spending as one of the most important issues of this campaign. In my opinion, it is the most direct and effective contribution that government can make to business."

Mr. Roosevelt was talking solely for political effect, as the record of his administration shows. Instead of economy we have seen expenditures pyramided, countless new bureaus have been created, business has been harassed by unfavorable legislation and governmental bulldozing.

The present administration in three years has budgeted expenditures in excess of $24,000,000,000, as much as was spent during the first 124 years of our government, or from President Washington to President Taft, inclusive.

The Democrats talk convincingly about economy, they are notoriously free spenders of the public's money. Or, as the Gump cartoon puts it, "They bruise easy, but they heal quick."

But how strange to see free people turn pale when the caller says he's a federal agent.

The more successful he is, the more his friends back in the old home town wonder how he gets by.

LISTEN TO REASON

Listen to reason, says my friend to me.

Listen to reason, says he, and you'll change your mind. You'll do as I advise. You'll NOT do what you said you intended to do. . . . You'll be a different man.

Yes, my friend, you may be right. I WOULD be a different man, and I'll agree that a few changes in my character and disposition would be an improvement. I'd be different but do you truly believe that I'd be happier? . . . And at the moment I'm more interested in happiness than I am in being quite correct.

I know the Goddess of Reason fairly well. Often I've worshiped at her shrine, and many a time I've called for her help when I have found myself on the unpopular side of an argument. But the lady is not a pleasing sort. She turns a cheerful face to astronomers and mathematicians, but to me she has always shown a stony visage. Her smile is wry, her eyes are hard, I have never seen the lady wink. . . . And when I have listened to Reason, I have found her more insistent on sacrifices than given to bounties. . . . I admire the lady, but I'd hardly call her charming.

I've taken the trouble, just this minute, to look up "Reason" in the book of useful quotations, and there I found much praise of Lady Reason. And it seemed to me that none of her adorers quite dared to speak their hearts about her. Their praise was cold and reasoned and shapely, lacking in joy and grace and healthy appetite. One James T. Adams, I did observe, however, wrote:

"Man is a creature of impulse, emotion, action, rather than reason. Reason is a very late development in the world of living creatures, most of whom, as far as we know, get along admirably in daily life without it."

And James T. Adams, my reasoning friend, is a man after my own heart!

SEEK SUCCESS IN YOUR HOME TOWN

You think that if you were in a larger place you would make good.
Why not try harder to make good in the place you are?
Requirements for success are the same in any place—large or small.
It demands the same sort of effort and close application.
Very likely it would require much more ability and effort in another city.
You may not have the necessary personal attainments to cope with the sort of competition you would meet in the larger place while they are sufficient to make you successful where you are.
Have you ever considered the possibility that you lack the elements of success?
It may be lack of effort.
It may be poor judgment in matters of credit.
Would you be more industrious in a larger place?
Do you think that you could make the city stride and hold it?
Have you ever done anything unusual where you are now located?
Are you better than others in your line at home?
Consider these matters well before locating in a metropolitan area.
Try to make good where you are.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

A FORTIETH ANNIVERSARY COMES

John Lodge was the city editor and
I was the office boy,
Just at the time when a baseball game was a youngster's
sweetest joy.
He was a man and I was a kid,
who nervous and nervy came
To his great desk up in the local room and asked for a pass to the game.
"And who are you?" said the editor.
"And of baseball what do you
know?
And why do you ask for a pass
today and why should I let you go?"

I stammered replies as best I could and I wished I had stayed down stairs,
For I didn't know men at the city
desk are sometimes as cross
as bears.
My heart went down as he shouted:
"No! I haven't a pass for you."
(Then a twinkle came in his kindly eye.) "But I tell you what
I'll do:
You be ready at half-past two,
since the game begins at three,
And I'll stop for you as I'm starting out and take you along with me."

I think he knew when he called for me 'twas the first big game
I'd seen,
But I don't believe that he ever
guessed how much that day
would mean.
I don't believe that he ever dreamed that the sound of those boos and cheers
Of that afternoon would still ring
today in that grateful
youngster's ears.
But this is the wish that I write today—that every boy could know
A friendship like that which began
for me—just forty years ago.

We had The News follow us to Mexico and back. We only had to read three copies after we got back. We could have had them all but one if we had had last Friday's and Saturday's sent to St. Louis, where we could have picked them up. We got later news in our paper six days old than we got in papers in the West and Southwest a day old.

It is with great satisfaction that we view the execution of so many murderers in this country, male and female. Getting rid of 99 murderers out of a hundred will reduce crime more than getting shut of two out of every hundred, like we have been.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED

There was a time when a man who could conduct his business without borrowing money was considered a financier. Today the man who can borrow money is the one who is called a financier. If you don't believe so, try and borrow some.

Mr. Hints and Dints: You and A. C. E. can recall over happy childhood days all you want to; but, as for me, I never turn a page of that closed book if I can avoid it. I was the only daughter among eight sons and was born with feminine instincts naturally, but my eight brothers did their manliest to weed it all out of me. My braided hair was pulled and jerked till I bribed a little girl to cut it off with buttonhole scissors. My eager, reaching baby hands were surprised with worms, tadpoles, frogs, grasshoppers and I was chased with all kinds of snakes, some alive, some dead. My dolls suffered martyrdom, hair pulled off, eyes gouged out, clothes ruined. My pantalet bottoms doused with any old thing at hand, my face smeared with poke berries, mulberries, anything. It was always good natured teasing, but it was not nice and I was duly horrified, being a female, a nice, clean little girl, who regarded boys as horrid creatures. Finally I learned to fight, which ended it all.

AN OLD ONE.

Dear Hints and Dints: In being married, personality should be at a common level. If one is low the other should not come down to the low level, but should lift the other to the high. That is, if the man is well educated and the woman is not, the man should educate the woman up to his level, and not follow the line of least resistance by permitting himseuf to be dragged down to a mentality equal to that of the woman. A brain is like anything else—if not used it will become rusty and disintegrate. C. W. P.

Just wait until the new state income tax goes on, and you will hear plenty of loyal citizens begin to holler. Every person earning over $1,000, if single, and $1,500, if married, pays the tax, and the same exemptions are allowed as under the federal income tax, which means that high salaried city, county, state and school officials will continue to pay nothing.

HIS VERSION

Jimmy rushed into the kitchen. "Mom," he cried excitedly, "I've just seen the present David's mother has brought him—it's a new baby."

Sentences For Boys Attacked.
Rehabilitation Is Suggested.
Women Kept In Dungeons.

Central Press
New York Bureau

By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, July 1.—There has risen revulsion in America, finally, to long sentences for young boys.

Two recent cases have attracted notice:

1. Two youths from Huntington, W. Va., one 14 and the other 17, abducted a sheriff in Indiana. They soon were caught and immediately were sentenced to life imprisonment. At the state reformatory, the warden refused to receive them. And the governor and the attorney general demanded a lifting of the sentence. The boys therefore were retried under a charge of automobile banditry; the younger was sentenced, then paroled to his parents; the elder was sent to the reformatory for one to ten years.

2. The second case involves three boys in New York—one 11 years old and two aged 13. They shot a man with a gun stolen from a policeman. They were fingerprinted and held for indictment by a grand jury for murder. The Rev. E. J. Flanagan, founder of Boys Town, Neb., where the priest rehabilitates boys, has interceded in behalf of these boys.

FATHER FLANNAGAN'S MESSAGE

Father Flanagan sent this message to Governor Herbert H. Lehman of New York:

"May I respectfully direct your attention to the terrible miscarriage of justice that is being perpetrated in the cases of the Damato boys and Lisbon Lawrence, who are being held for murder in Jamaica, N. Y.

"I would be the last to condone the taking of human life, but to treat these children as hardened criminals is an even worse crime and a blot on the fair name of the great state of New York which has done so much for underprivileged childhood. I plead with you to exercise your executive powers to see that these children are given a chance. Already by fingerprinting them and holding them for the grand jury they have been given an impression of criminal atmosphere that will stay with them the rest of their lives.

"Cannot some arrangement be made to send them to some institution where they can be given a new start in life instead of grinding them between the millstones of the law and wrecking their lives by sending them to prison?

"If necessary I will make room for them at my home for homeless boys of Boys Town, Neb. Our home is now caring for more than 200 underpriviliged boys on a farm of several hundred acres 10 miles west of Omaha, where they are given schooling and taught trades and made ready for an honorable and useful life.

"The Damato boys and the Lawrence boy are entitled to their chance in life and I feel sure that you will see that they get it."

WHY DUNGEONS?

An interesting discussion has risen in Ohio over prisons. (This state has been interested in prison problems since 322 men perished in a prison fire five years ago, but nothing much has been done toward remedying conditions.)

A state investigator averred that when he visited the Ohio State Reformatory for Women at Marysville, O., he found women in dungeons into which water seeped, and that the women were insufficiently clad. One had nothing on.

The matron responded that she has repeatedly pleaded for new prison equipment, then showed reporters how "pleasant" the dungeons are.

The state investigator was "fired" for making a report that the welfare director said was incorrect and sensational, and the matron was commended for her administration.

Perhaps as long as prisons are in the hands of politicians, which in itself should be a horrible crime, there will be "pleasant" dungeons for the unfortunates who fall into the hands of the law and its present revolting system of "reform".

IN KANSAS

In Kansas, where there was a recent prison mutiny, men have little reward or time off for being good.

And, in Kansas, a man still may be sent to prison for life for possessing a bottle of liquor—even legally made liquor, if he has been arrested previously. For example, if a man has been caught with liquor three times, he goes to prison for life.

TODAY Is The Day

MONDAY, JULY 1

Today's Yesterdays, July 1, 1757—France had 20 times as much of North America as Britain. The estimate was made as an intensive struggle for Canada began.

Today France's only possessions in North America are a group of small islands, while more territory in North America is under the British flag than that of any other nation including the United States.

July 1, 1859—The first transcontental flight was made, nearly 50 years before the Wright brothers got their first plane into the air.

John Wise, with O. H. Gager, John Lamountain and another companion, soared in a balloon from St. Louis to Jefferson county, New York, 1150 miles, in 19 hours, 15 minutes.

July 1, 1863—Maj. Gen. George C. Meade, born in Spain, had been in command of the Army of the Potomac only two days when the responsibility of fighting the biggest battle ever waged in the western world was thrust upon him at Gettysburg, Pa. As the struggle upon which the fate of the Union hung, began, Meade didn't know the exact position of his army, let alone Lee's!

Lee had lost 20,451 men out of an estimated 73,000; Meade 23,049 out of 82,000. In the casualty lists were 39 generals! The only civilian killed during the battle, which raged in and around a populous region, was a girl. One John Chase of the 5th Maine Battery received more than 48 shrapnel wounds—and lived. A wound received by Gen. Winfield Hancock probably cost him the Presidency.

July 1, 1875—The world's first league of nations came into existence, with the United States as a full-fledged member!

This was the Postal Union, established by treaty of Berno. It enables you to send a letter or package from your corner mail-box to anyplace in the world.

It doesn't. It makes humans feel cooler by carrying away excessive heat from their bodies and also by promoting the evaporation of sweat, which is a cooling process.

That full-length feature photoplays in color now are being produced for the first time.

This isn't so! A number of them were made 10 years ago, and the process abandoned for lack of public interest. The producers found that, after all, "the play's the thing."

They don't. Paul W. Dobson, of Clarington, Pa., who has lived all his 32 years on a farm tells us. "Chickens, ducks, geese, guineas, etc., do not generally co-mingle any more than robins and woodpeckers", he says.

SOME VERDICT

Court Clerk—Members of the jury, have you reached a verdict?

Jury—We have.

Court Clerk—What do you find?

Jury—We find the judge hostile, biased and prejudiced; the witnesses either senile, dishonest, interested, carefully coached, previously convicted, or downright daffy; the prosecutor vindictive and rasping; the spectators giddy, morbidly curious; the seats in the courtroom uncomfortable; the proceedings unnecessarily long winded, tiresome and tedious; the exhibits voluminous and contradictory; in fact, we find everything exactly opposite to what it should be in a court of justice.

Correctly Speaking—

Abbreviation of titles is, in general inelegant and objectionable.

Dismissals Are Being Speeded

Republicans Being Fired To Make Way For Democratic Applicants

FALL ELECTIONS NOW IN PROSPECT

By G. EVERETT DOYING
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, July 1.—"Dismissal days" for holdover Republican employes are beginning to arrive with full force on capitol hill and out among the state's vast army of field workers.

With the long, trying legislative session over, department heads have begun to turn in earnest to thoughts of reorganizing their personnel with Democratic "faithfuls" who have been clamoring for jobs with increasing vigor.

The turnover, as reflected by payroll change sheets and announcements by department heads themselves, is increasing in intensity following the brief lull after the first stream of discharges which came on the heels of inauguration of the new Democratic administration.

Administration leaders make no bones about saying the dismissals to date have largely resulted from "weeding out" of the most active G. O. P. politicians on the payroll With these vacancies and replacements in key positions, the administration now has built up a skeleton force of Democrats.

That this skeleton force is to become the foundation for the wholesale dismissals enroute nobody denies. With Democrats inserted in key positions and "broken in" on the mechanics of the governmental functions, the replacements of the "little fry"—stenographers, clerks, bookkeepers, etc—can be accelerated considerably with a minimum of lost effort.

Another impelling arument advanced for the speeding up of new personnel changes is the approaching fall elections in which Democrats intend to make a serious drive to take possession of county and municipal offices.

Virtually every department is affected by the acceleration in dismissals. The Highway department personnel change lists have not been increasing in length and regularity. Other department heads have not been quite so thorough but they are following in Warren Van Dyke's footsteps.

There is one other phase of the situation, the increasing percentage of new employes hired in relation to the number fired. During the session, the personnel of most departments was reduced. Discharged employes were not replaced at once, some new Defocratic appointee taking over both his own and another job.

Now, with the doors to patronage swinging open, many of these vacancies are being filled along with the replacements.

AROUND CITY HALL

Police chronology for 48 hours ending at 3:30 p. m. June 30, 10 arrests on charges as follows: Drunkenness and Disorderly conduct 4 and Exceeding parking time limit 2.

Attendance at the Tin Workers picnic at Cascade Park, Saturday, recalled boom days here when large crowds were not uncommon at the park. During the past few years the Tin Workers and Merchants have held some of the largest outings there which will help the concessionaries along in the lean days. Manager C. C. Coulthard stated recently that he has several large local picnics scheduled before the season ends.

Only eight persons were arrested on charges which involved liquor during the past few days. Several persons were taken into custody at their homes, having imbibed too much and upon their arrival home started arguments. Some of them were left go free when they sobered up and those who were not freed Saturday night were discharged in police court Sunday.

A daily report is kept of the places in the city where beer is sold and dancing allowed. During June 12 places took out dance permits. Some of them took as many as 25 permits which shows that patrons danced each day. Others took out permits only for the days on which they permitted dancing. A permit fee of $1.00 per day is charged and the city ordinance calls for a return of 90 percent of the amount paid over $3.00. However, no refunds have been approved by the controller.

City taxes for 1935 became delinquent today and from now on those who have not paid their city taxes will have to pay a penalty of one percent for each month the tax is delinquent. School taxes can be paid at a discount of one percent until August, according to city treasury attaches.

SUSAN VILAS, the free-style swimming champion, comments: "I've discovered that Camels are mild. They don't cut down my wind. Camels are full of rich, smooth taste!"

GEORGE M. LOTT, JR., tennis star, says: "Camels never take the edge off my condition or get my wind, because they are mild. I understand more expensive tobaccos are used in Camels. That accounts for their mildness!"

BILL MEHLHORN, the star golfer, adds this timely word: "I've got to keep fit to compete in tournament golf. I can smoke Camels steadily. From years of experience I know they won't get my wind or jangle my nerves."

CARL HUBBELL, a Camel smoker for many years, caught in action on the diamond! He says: "Camels have flavor, plus mildness—a rare combination. And they never get my wind. 'I'd walk a mile for a Camel!'"

On Court House Hill

Bond of Le Roy Hazen as tax collector of Perry township, in the sum of $1700 has been approved by Judge R. L. Hildebrand.

Collections of county and poor taxes on last Friday amounted to $9,668.55, according to County Treasurer William O. Pitts. This was one of the largest amounts collected on any one day since June 1. The total was swelled by some taxes on estates held by The Union Trust Company.

A commission as notary public issued to Mrs. Muriel Klingensmith of this city, has been entered at the register and recorder's office.

Nellie P. Dunbar, of Ellwood City, temporarily residing in Pittsburgh, presented a petition to court asking for an additional allowance for her daughter, Nancy Jane Dunbar, for whom the Lawrence Savings and Trust Company is guardian. The additional allowance was needed on account of sickness and was granted.

There has been considerable confusion as to when taxes for 1935 become delinquent as contemplated by the recent act providing for their payment. Some have maintained that taxes are delinquent as soon as a penalty is added: others that they are not delinquent until Nov. 1, as specified in the act. C. V. Shoup of Pittsburgh, lobbyist for the Tax Justice League at Harrisburg has a copy of the act with amendments, with him at the Tax Justice League meeting held at the Elks Club last week, and read it for the information of the members. The act clearly says that taxpayers may take advantage of it up until Nov. 1, regardless of any penalties that may be added in the meanwhile.

In an opinion handed down by Judge James A. Chambers in the case of Albert J. Gwin, use of Clyde V Ailey against James D. Cross, the amount of a deficiency judgment is fixed at $413. Deficiency judgments are something comparatively new in the real estate and mortgage line, and are not very well understood by the average citizen. Before the passage of the recent act when a property was sold by the sheriff on a mortgage, and did not bring the amount of the mortgage, the accompanying bond, covered any other property which might be owned by the person whose property was sold. The mortgagee could collect on this other property the difference between the amount due on his mortgage and the amount which he received from the sheriff sale.

Under the new act the fair value of the property sold is determined by the court from evidence presented both by the mortgagor and mortgagee. A deficiency judgment is then awarded for the difference between the fair value and the amount of the mortgage upon which the property was sold. In the Ailey-Cross case in which the opinion is handed down witnesses for the plaintiff fixed the value of the property sold at from $600 to $700. Witnesses for defendant fixed it at from $1000 to $1400. There was evidence of an actual purchaser willing to give $1000. The property was sold at the sheriff sale for much less, but from the evidence the court fixed $1000 as the fair value and allowed a deficiency judgement of $413.

Farmers Rush To Aid Of Airplane Forced To Land

(International News Service)

TYRONE, Pa., July 1.—Sunday, a day of peace, quiet and rest, turned out to be one of work for farmers in the mountainous regions near here yesterday.

Much to their surprise, farmers saw an airplane land in a hay field. Fearing the worst, they dashed to the scene. But to their suprise, they found the plane, its pilot Venus Shakarian, 27, and a student pilot, William Laudington.

When the gas supply became exhausted, the fliers were forced to land.

So, someone walked for gasoline while the farmers cut the alfalfa so the plane could take off and continue its flight to Bellefonte.

Ona was held after he clashed Feliano Orda with a razor during a dispute over losses in a card game. Orda was seriously injured and Ona's bail was fixed at $1,000. The amount in dispute was two cents.

Declaration Of Independence Was Not Signed On July Fourth, Though That Date Is Celebrated

Liberty Bell and its famous crack. (It did not crack pealing on July 4.)

The famous painting, "Signing of the Declaration of Independence." (Some of the men shown here were not present.)

By CLARK KINNAIRD
Writer of the popular 'Today is the Day" column for Central Press.

Many millions of Americans will refer to July 4 this year (as usual) as the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, and many millions of Americans will be wrong.

Not one of the 56 signers of the Declaration inscribed his name on the document on July 4. At least 13 of the signers weren't in Philadelphia on July 4, and at least six weren't even members of congress at that time.

No incident in American history is more befogged with popular misconceptions than the action taken by congress on July 4, 1776. Most of what was taught about the incident in school texts for many decades has been altered as a result of modern historical research.

What Actually Occurred.

Congress' vote on July 4, which caused the date to be celebrated as the nation's birthday, was an anti-climax to its adoption, two days previously, of the resolution of independence which the delegates had had before them since June 7, when Richard Henry Lee of Virginia introduced a resolution "that these United Colonies are, ahd of right ought to be, free and independent states." What is known as the Declaration of Independence, adopted on July 4, was an explanation of the resolution.

Broke Ties on Dec. 6, 1775.

The Declaration is headed, "In congress, July 4, 1776. The unanimous Declaration of the 13 United States of America." This is an error, for New York's delegates were not impowered to subscribe to the Declaration until July 9. The vote on the resolution preceding the Declaration hadn't been unanimous; the New York delegation had abstained from voting for want of instructions, and Pennsylvania and Delaware cast divided ballots, with some of their delegates voting against independence.

Correctly speaking, the colonies cast off their ties from Britain on December 6, 1775, when the continental congress formally disavowed allegiance to parliament. And the united Declaration of July 4 followed individual action by North Carolina, Connecticut and Virginia in declaring themselves independent or both king and parliament.

Virginia's action, in fact, led to the independence resolution of the congress. The Virginia legislative body instructed Richard Henry Lee to press action upon a similar declaration by the congress, and it was in compliance with this instruction that he introduced his resolution.

Fate decreed that he should not be present when it was adopted. He had been called back to Virginia by family matters, and his fellow Virginian, 33-year-old Thomas Jefferson, had been chosen to draft the declaration to accompany the resolution. The choice was made by a committee of five designated by congress for the purpose of making the draft, the other members being John Adams, Benjamin Franklin, Robert R. Livingston and Roger Sherman.

Jefferson's Inspiration.

Singularly, Franklin, who had presented the first plan for a union of the colonies 20 years before, made no impress upon the Declaration. Jefferson was imbued with the political philosophy of John Locke, recalcitrant Englishman, and drew his inspiration, if not his phraseology, from Locke. The document Jefferson drew up was much more radical than that the timid congress adopted: it eliminated his strictures on the British people, whom Jefferson blamed equally with their king for the wrongs inflicted on the colonies, and it cut out his denunciation of slavery. Also it added appeals to Providence. Jefferson was an agnostic.

Not all of those who voted for the Declaration ever signed it, and some of those who didn't vote for it did. Missing from among the signers were Patrick Henry, who had made the first call for liberty, and George Washington, who did most to win it. Most of the signatures were affixed August 2, 1776, and at least six later. That of Thomas McKean was not added until 1781. His name does not appear in "authenticated" copies of the resolution sent to each of the colonies in 1777, and released for public circulation. Until that time it was suppressed as far as possible, for the signers and their families had been proscribed by the British government and rewards of 500 pounds offered for their apprehension. Franklin had spoken with vision as well as wit when he said, "Gentlemen, we must hang together or we shall most certainly hang separately."

Woman Printer Risks Neck.

A woman printer, Mary K. Goddard of Baltimore, risked her own neck in making the first copies of the Declaration, those distributed to the colonies in 1777.

Liberty Bell, which next to the original embossed copy of the Declaration is the most revered relic of the nation's renouncement of its ties with Britain, enjoys a reputation that is largely false. There is no evidence that it pealed out the first news of liberty. And it is certain that its crack didn't result from whatever ringing it did on July 2 or July 4. That came as it tolled a requiem for Chief Justice John Marshall in July, 1835—which was many years later.

"G-MEN" BECOME F. B. I.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The Department of Justice has no more "G-Men." They are agents of the "F. B. I."

Henceforth, the department will ignore the monicker made famous by "Machine Gun" Kelly, copy readers and Hollywood as being too undignified. Just as England has its C. I. D., the United States will have its F. B. I., which stands for Federal Bureau of Investigation.

BIG FRENCHMAN IS BEST BEER DRINKER

(International News Service)

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 1.—Floyd Verette was not at all proud of his record today that won him the title of champion beer drinker in all Milwaukee and Ozaukee counties.

Verette, a 310-pound Frenchman, copped first place in the guzzlers' race by downing a half-gallon pail of brew in 30 seconds. He commented ruefully when the time was announced:

"Gosh, I could've done better than that with a little more training."

Although none of the women entered qualified for the finals, Mrs. Aldea Ehmke, mother of 14 and grandmother of 19, defended their capacities as follows:

"Women can drink just as much as men but they drink differently."

For a long time a legend persisted that Boswell was little more than a fool and a sot, who had somehow become miraculously endowed with the ability to write a masterpiece, the "Life of Johnson." But whatever inspiration may have gone to the writing of Boswell's "Life of Johnson," the amount of patient labor and skill involved was even greater.

Key Brothers Hope To Remain Aloft Over Mississippi Airport 'Till July 4

(International News Service)

MERIDIAN, Miss., July 1.—With the silver monoplane "Ole Miss" still holding out despite the terrific grilling it has received, the Key brothers, Al and Fred, today were well on their way to breaking the unofficial endurance record set by Dale Jackson and Forrest O'Brien.

At 6:32 a. m. (CST) they had less than six hours to go before they broke the Jackson-O'Brien record. At that time, the two brothers had been in the air 642 gruelling hours, during which they had met foul weather, storms, fire and waged a continual duel with monotony and fatigue.

Vibration is now their worst enemy, for vibration may shake away the remaining support of their left stabilizer brace. Lacking this and engine trouble, the Key brothers may make good their boast that they will not come down until July 4.

Eight Injured As Grandstand Falls

Section Of Grandstand At Flemington, N. J., Collapses; Many Escape Injuries

(International News Service)

FLEMINGTON, N. J., July 1.—One hundred and fifty men, women and children escaped serious injury here yesterday when the centre section of the grandstand of the new Jaegers Velodrome collapsed while the track's opening day races were in progress.

The velodrome, named after Charlie Jaeger, widely known bicycle rider, had just been completed, and was being inaugurated with a meet for local riders.

A panic was averted by prompt action by state troopers, who kept the crowd calm until they could be extricated from the debris. Eight persons were treated for minor cuts, bruises and fractures.

WOUNDS TWO; THEN SUICIDES

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, July 1.—Jilted by the girl he loved, John Fabro, 32, was dead today by his own hand, while the young woman and her sister lay critically wounded from his gun attack.

The girls, Jean 21, and Celia Farnous, 24, were confronted by Fabroa as they left church. In front of the departing congregation, Fabro demanded that Jean get in his car. When she refused he drew a revolver and shot her in the back and leg. As Celia cried out, he fired a bullet into her abdomen and then turned the weapon to his head and pulled the trigger.

Fabro was divorced on desertion charges three weeks ago.

Bruno Jurors Are Still Out

Jury In Kelayres Massacre Case Are Deadlocked; Out Three Days

(International News Service)

POTTSVILLE, Pa., July 1—Still deadlocked after three days, a jury of nine men and three women considering the fate of six kinsmen of Joseph J. Bruno, former Kline Twp. politician leader, all accused of murder as a result of the Kelayres election eve massacre, today were expected to report to the court for additional instructions.

Indications were that the jury was no nearer a verdict than when it was first locked up to deliberate last Friday afternoon at 4:30.

Hold Services

Because several members of the jury are officers in Sunday schools, the jurors spent the Sabbath mostly in religious services and singing of Lymns.

Those on trial were Bruno's sons, Alfred, 26, and James, 30; his brother, Philip, 47; the latter's son Arthur, 18; Paul Brunno, 24, a nephew of Joseph and Philip and Anthony Orlando, 27, Joseph Bruno's son-in-law. They were charged specifically with killing Dominick Perna, John Galosky, Frank Fiorcila and Andrey Kostishian when gunfire mowed down a parade of Democratic marchers last election eve.

Bruno has already been convicted manslaughter and second degree murder in two trials for the four deaths. He will be tried again for the slaying of Frank Forke, the fifth victim.

Judge E. E. Cushman

George Weyerhaeuser

Her plea of guilty refused, Mrs. Margaret Waley is scheduled to go to trial July 5 at Tacoma, Wash., on charges under the Lindbergh law in connection with the kidnaping of young George Weyerhaeuser. The 19-year-old wife of Harmon Waley tried to plead guilty when her husband was sentenced to 45 years in federal prison. Federal Judge E. E. Cushman, upon being informed that Mrs. Waley merely was a dupe of her husband and the fugitive William A. Mahan, ordered a formal trial and named John Dore, former mayor of Seattle, as counsel for the young woman. Federal District Attorney J. C. Dennis represents the prosecution. No witnesses may be called.

Probe Crash Of Dance Pavilion

State Investigation Will Be Made Into Collapse Of Dance Hall During Contest

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., July 1—While more than a score of victims remained in the Nanticoke State hospital, a state investigation opened today in the collapse of a wooden dance pavillion in an amusement park near Croop's Glen in which more than 200 men, women and children were hurt.

The center of the pavilion, which was built on stilts over Hunlock Creek, gave way as several hundred persons jammed every inch of space to watch a baby show, prize feature of a picnic of the Nanticoke council of the Luzerne county unemployed league.

Mothers and their babies were tumbled into the waters of the creek about 30 feet below. While panic raged in the crowd, men standing nearby rushed into the water and rescued the hysterical mothers.

125 Are Treated

David Pearsol, supervising inspector for the department of labor and industry, with headquarters at Hazleton, took active charge of the investigation.

More than 125 persons received treatment at the Nanicoke State hospital where they were rushed in passing automobiles halted along the highway near the amusement park. More than a score remained in the hospital for further treatment. Many of the injured were treated on the scene while others went to their homes suffering from shock.

Many tales of terror and fright were told by victims, most of them mothers who only a few moments before had held their offspring in their arms watching the capers of the baby show contestants.

Summering in Print

Are you summering in prints? For afternoon there is the white chiffon frock, above, which is splashed with bright blue dots, worn by Patricia Ellis. The individual points are the double pleated ruffle edging the rever collar, the tie-on sleeves of the separate jacket, and the field flowers at the neckline. For dancing Bette Davis poses in a striking gown of crepe with gaily printed flowers in red, yellow, green, turquois blue and white. The polka dot is one of the most important of the print designs. It is seen in green with white dots, navy with pink and wine as well as white, multi-colored dots on navy, red with white, and, of course, black and white. These are for daytime wear. For evening the flower prints are the favorites.

President Is Facing Defeat On Utilities

House Nears Vote On Question Of Holding Company Death Sentence

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Defeat of President Roosevelt's drastic utility program appeared certain today as the house prepared to vote on his demand for dissolution of giant holding company structures.

Despite optimistic predictions of "power trust" foes, house leaders conceded rejection of the controversial holding company "death sentence" by a "substanial majority" of votes.

The question of whether to include the "death sentence" in the pending utility bill will be placed squarely before members after two hours debate.

Although the senate approved the original utility bill, the house interstate commerce committee ordered sweeping modifications, eliminating both the "death clause" and stiff holding company dividend taxes.

As time approached for the vote administration officials and opponents of private power companies made a desperate last minute effort to force adoption of the president's demands.

Cloak-room threats to withdraw patronage from those Democrats who fail to support the president also were held unsuccessful by house leaders.

"Many of the Democrats have been getting no patronage up to now and don't expect any no matter how they vote on the death sentence," one member said.

Chrysler Places Six Million Order

(International News Service)

CLEVELAND, O., July 1.—Receipt of a $6,900,000 contract from Chrysler Corp. for frames for the company's new models was announced here today by the Midland Steel, Co., through its president, E. P. Kulas.

The company, which buys its strip steel from Otis Steel Co., is beginning work at once on tools for the order, Kulas said. Placing of the large order strengthened the optimistic view of steelmakers for fall business, despite the fact that production during the first six months of 1935 slipped below that for 1934, is pointed out by the Magazine Steel today.

Operation May Restore Sight To Eye Of Boy

Woman Going Blind Offers Tissues Of Eye To Save Sight Of Boy's Eye

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, July 1.—Through the eye of a woman going blind, a boy may see.

That, in short, is the story of one of the great experiments of modern surgical science now approaching its fruition at Passavant hospital here.

Stanley May, 14 year old son of William Henry May, president of the May Coal and Lumber Co., of Independence, Mo., had lost the sight of his left eye through an injury to the cornea incurred in a freak accident five years ago.

The woman remains anonymous. Going blind and facing death from a tumor behind her right eye, she submitted to an operation for its removal as a necessary step to save her life. Willingly she consented to the arrangement whereby the good tissue of her eye might be used to restore the boy's sight.

The surgeon, who modestly sought anonymity for himself, is Dr. Sanford Gifford, head of the Department of Opthalmology at Northwestern University Medical School.

of dishes and in addition there were numerous other gifts.

At six o'clock the grand drawing took place with Mayor Charles B. Mayne, Councilmen Davies, Alexander, Butler and Hoyland and Sheriff Edward D. Pritchard, supervising the drawing of the numbers. The list of winners is found below. Park Commissioner Guy J. Wadlinger was at the microphone announcing the winners.

At nine o'clock motion pictures of the steel industry were shown in the grove and at eleven o'clock the fireworks display was set off.

Like the picnic a year ago the one Saturday was a huge success, but this year's picnic arrangements had the advantage of the experience of a year ago and hence was smoother. The Employes Representative Association of the tin plants sponsored and conducted the picnic and to them large credit is due for the splendid success of the day. Every one had a good time, and most of the picnickers were pleasantly tired at the end of the day. Godfrey Richards had charge of the day as general chairman and he and his committees were on the job. The result was smoothness and efficiency.

To repeat nothing marred the day. Despite the huge crowd the events moved off with precision, the crowd enjoyed itself, and the sum of the second Tin Workers Day was Success.

Prisoner Talks Way To Freedom

Tennessee Man Asked To "Judge" Himself And Takes Probation For Year

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 1.—Placed in the poistion of the judge on the bench, Vernon R. Chumbley, 43, son of a former Tennessee jurist and self-styled "black sheep" of his family, gave himself "another chance" today in federal district court.

"It's an old weakness," Chumbley confided to Visiting Judge J. Warren Davis after pleading guilty to a charge of impersonating a federal officer.

"What would you do if you were sitting on the bench?" Davis asked Chumbley, who is a former lawyer.

"Place myself on probation, judge," Chumbley remarked.

Judge Davis accepted the hint and fixed the probation period at one year.

McNair Cancels Cabaret Permit

Neighbors Complain Of Too Much Loud Music, Disregards Aged Burgess' Advice

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 1—A man should live up to his reputation, especially if it happens to be good, but a cabaret shouldn't.

That, in effect, was the ruling of Mayor William N. McNair here today when he cancelled a permit for an East end cabaret known as "Heller's."

Because the cabaret lived up to its name by means of unmuted music and boisterous entertainments, neighbors complained they were unable to sleep. Shortly after the hearing opened in walked James A. McGowan, 74 year old burgess of Prospect, Butler county.

McNair selected McGowan as his Solomon and then ignored his advice. Puzzled, the mayor asked.

"What would you do, Burgess?

"Well, what the world needs is more, not less music," advised the burgess.

"How would you like to live beside it?" inquired McNair.

"First rate," beamed McGowan, "eat, drink and be merry, is my motto."

Disagreeing, the mayor cancelled Heller's permit.

Correct this sentence: "Wife and I have lived together so long said the man, "that I understand her thoroughly."

CAROLINA CITY HAS NO BEAUTY QUEEN

COLUMBIA, S. C., July 2.—Page Venus de Milo, or any one of her less attractive sisters—this city is in dire need of a beauty queen!

The annual contest to decide Columbia's most pulchritudinous female has been called off for the simple reason that not a single girl, beautiful or homely, responded to the call for the contest.

"The girls all seem to be out of town," one member of the committee tried to explain.

"The gals here are jest gettin' too smart fer these dern contests," allowed a bystander.

"Anyhow, we'll draft a 'Miss Columbia,' for the event," and the committeeman.

House Excited As Vote Nears On Utilities Issue

Much Debate Is Heard On Holding Company Controversy

PRESIDENT BEARS BRUNT OF ATTACK

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 1.—With excitement so great that presiding officers had difficulty in maintaining order, the house today moved toword a showdown vote on President Roosevelt's demand that utility holding companies be outlawed.

Realizing that for the first time this session there was a strong possibility that the overwhelmingly Democratic house may repudiate Mr. Roosevelt, members kept up a noisy hubbub of conversation and milled in the aisles as speakers took the floor.

The issue, whether the house should restore Section 11 of the utility bill, which carries the "death sentence" for giant holding companies, was to be decided on a teller vote in committee of the whole.

Rep. Warren (D) North Carolina, president, hammered his gavel repeatedly. Members, usually restrained in debate, brushed aside rules of decorum as they vented their fellings on the issue.

Rep. Andrews (R) New York charged that President Roosevelt's contact man, former Rep. Charles West, was lobbying and intimated that the administration threatened to deprive recalcitrant members of post office appointments.

Rep. Cooper (R) Ohio, declared that President Roosevelt had changed his mind since he was governor of New York, while Rep. May (D) Kentucky accused the president of abandoning the Democratic platform of 1932.

Rep. Starnes (D) Alabama, Pierce (D) Oregon and others assailed big utility holding companies as "creature of Wall Street" and declared that President Roosevelt's leadership rose to new heights in an effort to destroy them.

The move to adopt the holding company ban was made by Rep. Eicher (D) Iowa, over opposition of a majority of his colleagues of the interstate commerce committee. The committee had eliminated the "death sentence" from the administration bill.

Eicher asked the house to substitute the "death sentence" as passed by the senate for the provision in the house measure which calls for simplification of large holding company structures into integrated utility systems.

Rep. Patman (D) Texas, praised the White House for "lobbying" in behalf of the president's program. He said they were "lobbying in the interest of the people."

Rep. Withrow (P) Wisconsin, appealing for the "death sentence," said a future congress could postpone dissolution of holding companies if it appeared that a seven-year period of liquidation would cause heavy losses.

Labor Relations Board Life Given Extention Today

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 1.—By executive order President Roosevelt today temporarily extended the lives of the national labor relations board, the national steel labor relations board, and the textile labor relations board, all of which otherwise would have gone out of existence as of today.

The national labor relations board was extended until August 1, and the steel and textile board "until further orders."

This action was taken as a stopgap until the Wagner Labor Disputes Bill which has passed both houses, has been signed and put into effect.

Embark Upon New Plans For Peace

(International News Service)

PARIS, July 1—For the first time since the war, the Fidac, representing all war veterans of all nations, embarked today upon an effort to arrive at a set of basic principles affording a solid foundation for peace.

A delegation from Nazi Germany participated in the friendly dicussion, which resulted in appointment of a drafting committee including James L. McCann of Tuskaloosa, Ala., head of the American delegation; Hanns Oberlindover, leader of the Nazi war veterans and Georges Rivollet, former French minister of pensions.

The former enemies will sit together at dinner tonight in a famous Boise de Boulogne restaurant to continue their deliberation.

ROTARIANS HEAR OF MEXICO CITY

H. R. McCULLOCH

Harold R. McCulloch today assumed the presidency of the New Castle Rotary club in a short, informal ceremony which marked the weekly luncheon of the club at The Castleton today. He succeeds Robert A. Eckles.

Differences In Social Security Bill Ironed Out

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Headed by Senator Harrison (D) of Mississippi, senate and house conferees on President Roosevelt's social security legislation, today began ironing out differences between the drafts of the measure as passed by the two houses.

A meeting of the conferees was called during the forenoon and Harrison said he hoped representatives of the two houses could reach agreement before nightfall.

The Clark amendment, inspired by the senate, permitting existing commercial pension systems to continue in operation, was the center of controversy. Harrison and other Democrats opposed the provision, declaring that uniform federal system must be created if the big program is to go into effect at all. House conferees were expected to fight the amendment, and senate leaders privately predicted that it would be wiped out by the bill. If house conferees insist on removing it, in all probability the senate will accede.

Warn Motorists Of "Sneak-Thief' Acts

Summer His Busy Time As Windows Are Left Down, Bolsinger Reminds

The hundreds of thousands of dollars lost annually by motorists because of theft results largely from failure to close all windows securely during the summer months, according to Ralph W. Bolsinger, president of the New Castle Motor club, which is affiliated with the A. A. A.

"Warmer weather brings need of added ventilation and frequently all windows of the cars are opened," Bolsinger said. Unless the motorists carefully closes all windows when he parks his car thieves and sneak-thieves who purloin packages and accessories from the vehicle.

"Unguarded automobiles on streets in business areas offer a better opportunity for the sneak-thief than one parked several blocks away, because in the hustle and bustle the thief has a better opportunity to make away with the stolen articles.

"In addition to closing all the windows before locking the car, the motorist also should make sure the windshield is securely fastened, particularly when valuable baggage or packages are left in the automobile.

"Where it is not possible to lock the car, it is wise to remove the baggage and parcels and have them checked at some convenient place while the car is parked.

"Always see that the motormeter, spare tires and other accessories are of the type that are either locked or permanently attached to the car.

When placing the car in a public garage, although articles usually are safe in the hands of those of recognized standing, be sure that pocketbooks, jewelry, vanity cases and so on are not left lying on the seats."

Wisconsin Man Regains Mind

Left Wife In Maternity Ward And Then Headed East, Found In Atlantic City

(International News Service)

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 1.—John Normington was on his way home to Marshfield, Wis., and his wife, an expectant mother, today with his memory restored by a visit to Atlantic City hospital.

With only Lancaster, Pa., store labels on his clothing to aid in identification, Normington walked into police headquarters, a victim of amnesia. Police took him to the hospital.

Some familiar sight or sound in the corridor struggled for recognition. Suddenly he cried out:

"I left my wife in a place like this."

Then he remembered, he said, it was in a Marshfield maternity ward 15 days ago that he last saw his wife, Adeline.

Normington, owner of a string of laundries in Wisconsin, reassured his family by an immediate long-distance call. Neither he nor police, however, could account for his wanderings nor the apparent purchase of clothing in Lancaster.

Steel Production Is Slightly Lower

(International News Service)

CLEVELAND, O., July 1.—Steel production for 1935 today crossed the halfway mark with a record slightly below that of the comparable period last year, but sentiment is stronger than at any time during the past several years, the magazine Steel said today.

Including the June estimates, the average steel works operations for six months is about 46 per cent, or one point below last year, but steel makers are confident the next six months will see a much heavier demand, the magazine said.

Miscellaneous requirements have held up better than expected, aided by rebounds at Chicago, Detroit, Youngstown and in New England the steel rate last week recovered one and one-half points to 37 per cent.

Tells How To Fight Beetles

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., July 1.—Gardners whose beans are faced with damage from the Mexican bean beetles have several choices of poisons to put the insects out of business, H. E. Hodgkiss, extension entomologist of the Pennsylvania State College, said today.

Some gardeners prefer to use a non-arsenical material which is not poisonous to humans. Derris dust, which has a rotenone content of one-half to three-fourths of one per cent, can be applied at the rate of 20 to 25 pounds to the acre.

One of the newer materials still under test is cryolite which can be used in a spray or as a dust mixed with fine dusting sulphur, wheat flour, talc, or tobacco dust. Objection to cryolite is the same as to the arsenicals. It should be omitted as soon as the beans start to pod.

Where arsenicals are used as dusts, two kinds are available. One pound of high grade calcium arsenate and 7 pounds of hydrated lime or 1 pound of magnesium arsenate and 5 pounds of hydrated lime can be used. The materials should be thoroughly mixed. Four or five treatments 10 days apart are sufficient.

If liquid sprays are used, the following formula is efficient: ¾ ounce of calcium arsenate, 1½ ounces of hydrated lime, and 3 gallons of water. Magnesium arsenate can be used at the rate of one ounce to thrfee gallons of water.

Both sprays and dusts should be directed to the under sides of the leaves where the beetles do their feeding. After the beans are picked they should be thoroughly washed to get rid of the arsenical.

Blame Japanese For Short-Lived Chinese Mutiny

Death Is Demanded For More Than 70 Rebels Result Of Affair

(International News Service)

PEIPING, July 1.—Japanese were blamed today for inciting last week's short-lived Chinese army mutiny, as death was demanded for more than 70 rebels captured and a price was put on the head of their leader.

Five Japanese were arrested by Chinese militia at Manchiao for alleged participation in the revolt, during which several hundred Chinese troops, using Japanese guns, tried to enter Peiping rather than evacuate Hopei Province, as Japanese military authorities demanded.

The Peiping Chinese military council has agreed to hand them over to the Japanese embassy for punishment.

General Taun Chun-Chih, commander of the armoured train that twice attacked Peiping's south gate, was one of the leaders arrested. He will be tried in Peiping and, it is expected, will be sentenced to death.

The remainder of the rebel force was reported dispersing in the vicinity of Tungshow.

A reward of $20,000 for the capture of the rebel leader General Pai Chien-Wu alive or $10,000 dead was offered by authorities.

FLOOD POURS RICHES DOWN ON FAMILY

(International News Service)

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., July 1.—The flood that poured through Colorado Springs recently, taking a toll of 15 human lives and destroying nearly two million dollars worth of property, brought good luck to the C. C. Dressel family.

The disaster reminded Dressel of a similar flood in Ohio, in 1913. At that time, he recalled, he saved a trunk containing some valuable papers.

Memory of the trunk recalled a poker game in which Dressel accepted some oil stock as security for an I. O. U. He asked his nephew, Charles F. Wyndham of Colorado Springs, to find the trunk and check its contents.

Wyndham found the trunk. In it was oil stocks, now worth $50,000 plus dividends and interest that had accrued through the years. The original owner of the securities died without reclaiming his property.

Doomed Man Is Given Few Days More To Live

(International News Service)

BELLEFONTE, Pa., July 1.—Death for William Deni, doomed Philadelphia policeman slayer, was delayed once again today, this time until Wednesday.

A few hours before Deni was to have been electrocuted for the murder of Patrolman Harry J. Donahue in February, 1934, Warden Stanley P. Ashe postponed the execution. Gov. George H. Earle's secretary requested the postponement because Attorney Brad Brodsky, Philadelphia, asserted Eni told him he has "positive information which will exonerate Luigi Quaranto serving life sentence for murder."

This last-minute disclosure saved Deni, who previously was granted two respites, from going to the chair shortly after midnight.

Irrigation Aid In Growing Vegetables

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., July 1.—Use of irrigation in growing vegetables proved its value this spring on the truck farm of Rufus Carl in Schuylkill county, according to W. B. Nissley, in charge of vegetable gardening extension for the Pennsylvania State College.

Water piped from springs at the foot of a mountain a half mile away flows by pressure of gravity alone to the truck crops on the farm.

Because water was available during the dry spell this spring, Carl was able to grow his crops to harvesting stage at an early date. Cabbage was cut June 5 and broccoli was cut for market the same week. Beets which had been set as transplants were wholesaled by the dozen. Head lettuce of the Iceberg type also developed well and was the firmest ever grown on the farm. Irrigation also was used on strawberries with excellent results.

Nissley reports that more interest is shown in irrigation at extension meetings throughout the state than any other subject related to vegetable gardening. The droughts of the past five years have convinced growers that they need a dependable supply of moisture for their seasonable crops.

ANOTHER TRUCE HALTS STRIKE OF COAL MINERS

Strike Called Off For Month

Action Taken By Lewis At Request Of President Roosevelt

MINERS DOING THEIR PART DECLARES LEWIS

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 1—With a third truce declared in the bituminous coal fields, operators and union miner representatives were enroute to their homes today, and the country was assured of a peace in this industry until August 1.

The strike set for last midnight by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, was called off Saturday night at the instigation of Secretary of Labor Perkins, acting at the request of President Roosevelt.

Under the truce the 450,000 soft coal miners agree to remain at their jobs at the old contract provision of a 35 hour week and a basic daily wage of $5. The miners demand a contract calling for a 30 hour week and a ten percent wage increase.

In agreeing to the postponement of the strike call, Lewis pointed out the miners were "going their part" and that "the contribution should be appreciated by the country at large and by the Congress."

Congress now is considering the Guffey coal bill favored by the union miners.

Today

The Fourth Is Coming.

Travel And Babies Increase.

Just Where Do We Go?

Scarnici's Innocent Friend.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

USUAL WARNING TO FATHERS AND MOTHERS! The Fourth and fireworks come next Thursday; firecrackers are exploding already. On the evening of the Fourth, certain fathers and mothers will be sitting in tears by the bed of some child, partially or totally blinded.

Hands of children, playing with fireworks are dirty with germs on the skin. Exploding firecrackers blow those germs through the protecting outer skin, into the flesh beneath. Some children this Fourth, as usual, will die of tetanus, lockjaw.

IF YOUR CHILD, must blow germs into his flesh with dangerous fireworks that you buy, have some strong disinfectant at hand. Iodine, easily procured, is good. Every German soldier had it about him, and was ordered to put it deep into any wound. Do that with your child's firecracker or other wound, remembering that a small injury, plus tetanus germs, may cause death. Consult your doctor, do not rely on yourself, or the child's statement that "it does not hurt".

ARE WE ENJOYING a little recovery, without knowing it. On Saturday 14,000 travelers started for Europe on 25 ocean liners, a high record for five years, with heavy increase in first class travel.

School closing last week explains the big figures. Some went to spend, others to save money. Living is cheap in parts of Europe, Italy particularly, in spite of our cheap dollar. Travel to England has greatly increased, also to Norway. To France and Germany travel has fallen off disastrously for those accustomed to harvest dollars of American travelers.

STATISTICS COMPILED by the League of Nations show that in 1934 the death rate declined throughout the world, but in 25 nations, while the number of marriages increased the birth rate fell heavily.

Exceptions, with birth rate increases, were Germany, England, Ireland, Poland and Denmark. Germany' birth rate increased heavily, the increase in 1934 was twice as fast as in 1933, seven times as fast as that of France in 1934.

That will worry France although it need not. The right air fleet, explosives, fire bombs and poison gases would take care easily of any enemy population increase. No wonder Russia announces that she is building up her air fleet and "the chemical department" which means the poison gas department of her national defense.

SOMEBODY MADE A PICTURE, showing President Roosevelt driving the national taxicab at high speed, dollar marks flying like sparks from the speedometer, and Mr. Little Average American, crouched in the back of the cab asking:

"Mr. President, would you mind telling me exactly where we are going?"

With a new week starting and the national taxicab traveling faster than ever, many would like an answer to that question.

It will be remembered that when he started, the President told Americans that he was going to try experiments in their behalf, since something must be done, and if he found he had made a mistake, he would turn round, and go the other way.

But, it is hard to turn around, once you get going at high speed, and some of the president's advisers are learned professors who have no conception of practical matters, having dealt only with theories that always come out right, because they are not tried to a conclusion.

These gentlemen, with the national treasury for their laboratory, and American industry for their experimental guinea pig will hardly be persuaded that there is any possibility of a mistake, until something breaks down.

The important question is what is happening to the people, millions of them, that are leaving the habit of work, and are taught that it is the duty of a super-power to care for them. That is a serious question, that, with some others, may receive unpleasant answers.

MR. SCARNICI, about to take his seat in the electric chair, last Thursday night "and expecting to meet his God face to face" as he put it, solemnly swore that another criminal, now serving a long term was innocent. Said Scarnici: "I was in that job and I do not want to see an innocent man suffer."

It may comfort the tender hearted to read an experienced detective's comment:

"If that man were really innocent, Scarnici would think it a good joke and pay no attention. Hardened criminals are interested in their criminal pals, not in the innocent, and they consider it a 'game' action to help a pal by lying, just before they die. Dozens of them do it."

IT IS A PLEASURE to know that of the 4,880 million dollar appropriation, $400,000,000 have been set aside for better roads, with $200,000,000 to be spent on roads that will let farmers drive from front gate to market, with no sinking in the mud.

Money, honestly spent on good roads, is never wasted. Men still admire wonderful roads built by Caesar and bless Napoleon for his road building. Those men built roads to facilitate conquest and killing. Modern builders construct roads of artificial stone, reinforced with steel as contributions to human happiness.

See Increased Aid For Schools

Department Of Public Instruction Summarizes Legislative Activity

IMPORTANT BILLS ARE POINTED OUT

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 1.—Increased state aid for public schools designed to make possible reductions in local real estate taxes headlined the legislature's activity in changing school laws at the recent session, the department of public instruction said today.

Summarizing the legislature's work as it related to education, the department said nearly 100 bills which were passed directly or indirectly affect schools. Twenty-six of the bills have been signed by Gov. George H. Earle; the others await his action.

Important Bills

The most important bills from the school taxpayers, standpoint, the department pointed out, were the Ziesenheim bills providing for payment by the state of $900 of the annual salary of teachers in addition to subsidies already granted where local school taxes were reduced by an equal amount. In figures, the legislature provided $25,000,000 a year for additional subsidies, virtually a 100 per cent increase. Statistics indicate this sum will make possible a reduction of about 20 per cent in school taxes.

To finance this grant, the administration's graduated income tax was passed. It must be tested in court and if found constitutional will begin bringing in funds next year.

In addition to the Ziesenheim bills the legislature appropriated a total of $81,172,900 for school purposes during the next two years and $4,982,000 as a deficiency appropriation for the last biennium. Of the $81,172,900, the bulk, $58,000,000, was made available in direct subsidies to public schools.

Most of the other bills passed during the session affect schools only indirectly. Typical of this group is the Parks bill, now a law, consolidating collection of school as well as city, county and poor district taxes in third class cities with the city treasurers.

A bill long sought by teachers was the Ruth measure prohibiting school directors from demanding, requesting or accepting directly or indirectly any gift or donation from any teachers in their employe. It awaits only Governor Earle's approval to become law. The teachers tenure bill also sought by instructors failed to pass.

Most of the measures which passed affecting delinquent taxes involve school taxes as well as other local levies. The Shreiner bill, in this group, permits school board to refinance indebtedness at a lower rate of interest.

The departmental summary also pointed out the Graff child labor bill affected school districts because of an anticipated increase in enrollments due to the stricter regulation of industrial employment of children under 18 years of age.

Gold Warehouse To Be Established

Will Be Placed At Army Post At Fort Knox, Kentucky

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 1—In a precautionary measure to protect America's vast gold reserves from any enemy that might invade either coast, Uncle Sam has decided to establish a gold warehouse in the center of the army post at Fort Knox, Ky.

Plans for the construction of huge vaults in this army stronghold 31 miles from Louisville were disclosed by Treasury officials today.

Congress will be asked to appropriate funds necessary for the construction of these vaults.

It is noped to complete the vaults by next year. As soon as they are completed, the major portion of Uncle Sam's gold holdings in the Eastern seaboard area will be transferred to the virtually fortified treasurer house at Ford Knox.

From a military standpoint these vaults will be considered virtually impregnable.

More Of Huey's Thunder Lost

President's Youth Program Takes Some More Of Long's Ammunition

Central Press
Washington Bureau
1900 S Street.

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 1—President Roosevelt's newly created National Youth Administration (NYA) represents another leaf torn out of Senator Huey P. Long's book.

It may not be exactly the Kingfish's idea, at that.

The Kingfish thought at first that the presidential "share our wealth" concept might be identical witn his own. Now he says it is too weak an imitation to possess any possibility of accomplishing the desired result.

He may have the same thing to say of the president's plan to help America's young folk, soon to be graduated or already graduated from school.

Digging Under Huey

However it is a fact that the White House cut a certain amount of ground from under the senator's feet by the launching of its distributive taxation program.

It also is a fact that the Louisiana statesman was a pioneer campaigner in behalf of the nation's youth. Today it has lost something of its pep by reason of the fact that the president difinitely has taken the matter in hand, with Assistant Federal Emergency Relief Administrator Aubrey Williams as its director, Assistant Treasurer Secretary Josephine Roche as head of its administrative board and with 50 millions out of his 4.880 million dollar work relief fund, to operate on.

All this costs the Kingfish a modicum of his thunder.

He can complain, of course, that presidential measures are inadequate, but to complain that they are inadequate is not so effective as to scream that the White House is doing nothing at all.

To just what extent President Roosevelt is satisfying progressives with his latest policies is problematic as yet.

After tacking for some time in a direction which many of them spoke as of decidedly to the right, they generally admit that he seems at present to be tacking noticeably to the left. They likewise admit that they don't know exactly what to make of it. Neither do conservatives.

But as to the liberals or progressives, or radicals, or whatever one chooses to call them—

A faction of them is working desperately to put a third party ticket into the field next year. Another faction holds that the president is advanced enough. They are split.

Splits and Splits

Split!

There never were so many political splits before.

President Roosevelt will be renominated by the Democrats in 1936 to a certainty. There is talk of the nomination of Senator Harry F. Eyrd of Virginia on a "Jeffersonian Democratic" ticket. Probably ex-President Hoover will be conservatively re-nominated by the Republicans. Senator Gerald P. Nye, of North Dakota has a strong following for nomination as a "reformed Republican." The allied Republican and Democratic progressives favor an independent nomination. Some of the progressives, however, consider President Roosevelt sufficiently progressive. A farm group shows signs of developing itself. Labor gives evidences of going into politics independently. The Kingfish almost has a party. The inflationists of various sorts are to be reckoned with. So are the bonusites.

All lines are divided every which way.

Anti-Roosvelts Hampered

Nothing is more significant than that a considerable number of congressional progressives, planning to hold a conference, with a view to 1936, plan to hold it in profound secrecy.

While maturing their plot (if any) they want to give the impression of being loyal administrationists, in order to get, for their respective constituencies, their various allotments from the president's 4.880 million-dollar work-relief fund. Let them appear prematurely as anti-administrationistic, and they fear that their home folk will be cut off the rolls, and blame them.

All of which materially hampers anti-Rooseveltian activities.

Party splits or no party splits, 4,880-millions is a snug sum to influence an election with.

Accused Youth's Brother Is Held

Second Member Of Peoria Family Now Jailed On Serious Charge

(International News Service)

PEORIA, Ill., July 1. — Protected by cell bars from a wrathful mob, Victor Thompson, 19, was lodged today in the county jail beside his brother, Gerald, 25, held for the assault and murder of Mildred Hallmark.

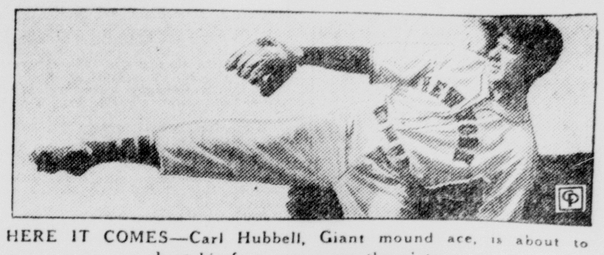

The young Thompson was hustled into the jail on a statutory charge involving an eight-year-old boy. Outside a mob of more than 200 pounded at the locked doors and demanded vainly that both prisoners be turned over to them for vengeance.

Implication of a second member of the Thompson family by the father of the youngster, who related the story to police. A hastily formed squad sped to the Thompson home and dragged him out of bed. Gerald is under indictment for the brutal slaying of the p

Yankees Enter Heated Protest

Protest Victory Of Washington 8 To 7 In 12 Innings On Ball In Dugout

INDIANS SPLIT WITH WHITE HOSE

By HOMER METZ
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 1.—The New York Yankees and the Washington Senators were still playing a Sunday ball game today.

The Yankees lost 8 to 7 in twelve innings at the Yankee Stadium here yesterday, but were hopeful of getting a reversal of the verdict in the office of American league president William Harridge today.

Manager Joe McCarthy of the Ruppertmen lodged an official protest with Harridge as a result of a play in the ninth inning that broke a 5-all deadlock and sent the contest into extra innings.

Frankie Crosetti, Yankee shortstop, threw the ball into the dugout trying to cut off a double steal in the ninth inning and two runners scored. McCarthy protested against allowing the second run to count, basing his plea on a rule, which, he maintains, limits a base-runner to one base on an error where a thrown ball goes into a dugout.

Babe Ruth, the celebrated ex-Yankee saw the proceedings from a field box and appeared to enjoy himself immensely.

Indians Split

The Yankees' closest rivals in the flag scramble, the Cleveland Indians, split a doubleheader with the Chicago White Sox. In the first game, the Indians, behind the six-hit pitching of Monte Pearson, registered a 3 to 2 decision over Ted Lyons. In the second game, however, the White Sox wrecked Mel Harder's winning streak by driving him from the box and winning going away, 8 to 0.

Rarely, if ever, has a big league offered more inept pitching than provided by Rogers Hornsby's Browns in two games with the Detroit Tigers. In the first game, the Browns pounded Thomas, Hansen, Walkup and Coffman for 27 hits to win by the overwhelming score of 20 to 1. In the nightcap the discomfited Hornsby sent Knott, Vander and Walkup to the mound and they the trio slammed for no less than 19 hits. This one went to the Tigers by an 11 to 6 count.

The Philadelphia Athletics defeated the Boston Red Sox, 10 to 9, as a result of four successive singles by Bob Johnson, Jimmy Foxx, Pinky Higgins and Eric McNair in the last half of the ninth inning.

Giants Win Two

The feature show in the National league saw the New York Giants score a twin triumph over their ancient rivals, the Brooklyn Dodgers, thus increasing their lead over the rest of the pack to 8½ games. The scores were 7 to 4 and 5 to 4 and winning pitchers were Clydell Castleman and Hal Schumacher.

The Phillies and the Boston Braves divided a doubleheader in Boston, the Braves taking the opener, 9 to 3, and dropping the nightcap by a 15 to 5 count.

Dean Loses Again

At Cincinnati, Dizzy Dean and the St. Louis Cardinals lost another ball game, the Reds defeating them by a score of 5 to 2. Tony Freitas held the world's champions to four hits, while the great Dizzy was soundly thumped in the fifth inning when the entire Cincinnati team batted and four runs crossed the plate.

The Pittsburgh Pirates sank the Chicago Cubs, 9 to 7, as the result of a seventeen hit attack that routed three Chicago pitchers, Lee, Root and French.

Davis-Radiators Battle Tonight

Game Halted Sunday, June 23, By Umpire To Be Resumed

Resumption of the soft ball league game between the Davis and Radiator teams tonight at 6 o'clock at the Radiator Field, will find the Radiator team at bat in the last of the fifth inning, and with the Davis team leading 1 to 0.

The game was halted by Umpire Wilson on a misinterpretation of the rules on Sunday, June 23. The Board of Commissioners together with President Walther corrected Umpire Wilson at a heated session at the "Y" and the game was ordered resumed.

Umpire Wilson found pitcher Lyle Nimmo of the Davis team using resin and forfeited the game to the Rads. Powdered resin is legal in the league as long as it is in a bag or sack, and placed on the ground for both pitchers to use.

Unions Lose Two At Youngstown

Unions went to Youngstown, O., yesterday and dropped a pair of well played games to the Bakers of Youngstown, the first half champions in the Ohio league. The first game ended 5 to 4, with Babs the losing hurler, and the second game was 3 to 1 with Al Ritchie the losing pitcher.

Johnny Uram featured the first game with a pair of hits, one of them a homer in the sixth that scored all four of the runs, the bases being loaded with Unions. Ted Turco played a fine game at third. Nick Biondi had a homer for the only run allowed the New Castles in the second game.

Sunday, July 21, the Bakers of Youngstown will be at the B. & O. field for a return set of games.

Hillsville Batters Get To P. Russo And Frigione On E. & A. Field

Hillsville walloped Mahoning A. A. 11 to 6, in a game on the E. & A. field yesterday which was witnessed by a large crowd. Mahoning used two pitchers in an effort to stop the heavy hitting Hillsville but failed while Larella bore the brunt of Mahoning's hitters for the full route.

Frigione was sent to his rescue and in the ninth they got three runs off him. Mahoning scored their fifth and sixth runs in the eighth and ninth innings. Mrion got the only triple of the day. Maxie Baer Is Enjoying Life As Married Man

Attends Church Services With New Missus, May Never Fight Again

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 1.—Ex-Heavyweight Champion Max Baer is going to be a good little boy from now on. He said so today in no uncertain terms, while his two-day bride, the former Mary Ellen Sullivan, nodded assent.

Max promised that henceforth he'd keep regular hours, attend church, drink no liquor and go to night clubs and other "hot spots" only in the company of his "pumkins", as he affectionately terms the new missus.

Attends Church.

Yesterday morning he attended services at the Roman Catholic church of St. Jean Baptiste and in the evening visited a Long Island roadhouse.

"I think marriage is just the thing for me," Maxie explained, seriously. "But about those night clubs, Mary—I really mean to keep out of the honky tonks, but there's no harm in the good places, is there, darling."

Concerning the all-important subject of whether he'll fight again, Maxie maintained a discreet silence.

Mrs. Baer repeated her earlier statement that she "just hates fighting."

In preparation for the coming Winter Olympics, Japanese skiiers will practice on an artificial snow ground at Otaru, Japan.

Schmeling Wants To Battle Baer

German Heavyweight Does Not Like Idea Of Meeting "Bomber" Louis

By DAVIS WALSH
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 1.—On Saturday morning Max Schmeling, in effect, told International News Service in an exclusive interview that he would rather meet Max Baer in Germany or Holland than meet Joe Louis in America or anywhere and, that in any case as far as a Louis fight was concerned, he "would have to think it over." On Saturday evening, Schmeling's step-manager, Joe Jacobs, sailed for Germany, telling everybody that Schmeling had cabled him, accepting terms for Louis in September.

Somebody is obviously wrong and it can't be Schmeling. He couldn't be mistaken on a point like this. He has been told too many times by Jacobs that he, Schmeling, can't even lick Carnera. They are still trying to identify some of the latter's remains, six days after he was knocked stiffer than a length of linoleum by Louis.

Jacobs Was Smart

"I was smart enough to keep Schmeling away from Carnera," Jacobs told the writer recently, "that's one he couldn't have won."

But this was before Louis went over Carnera like an estimate and talk began about $500,000 or $600,000 gate with Schmeling and Louis in September, with Jacobs seeing a chance to get himself once and forever out of the vermillion or henna or auburn or red. He has been in there so long, he's beginning to look like a neon sign. As for Schmeling, his end, or 35 percent, has been represented to him as $200,000 so he's now thinking over a great deal of very vulgar and obscene money, more than he'll ever see again.

Soft Ball Teams Are Taking Rest

This week will be a dull one in soft ball circles, President Walther leaving the entire week open for the playing of a city soft ball league series if necessary, and also giving the junior league teams a chance to get caught up with postponed games.

The second half of both leagues will be resumed on Monday and Tuesday, July 8 and 9.

The St. Andrews team in the senior league has a chance to cop the first half title tonight if the Rads lose to the Davis team, while a victory for the Rads will tie the two teams up for the championship of the first half of the league.

If a series is necessary it is hoped to get it started either Tuesday or Wednesday.

FAILED TO SHOW UP

Through no fault of the National Radiators whatsoever a crowd of 1,000 fans who had gathered at the Radiator Field yesterday to witness the double-header with the Rads and the Wagner-Glovers of Farrell, was disappointed when the latter team failed to show up. This is the second time that the Farrell team has failed to show up, according to R. W. Bolsinger.

Fishermen Open 1935 Bass Season

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 1.—Ideal conditions forecast by the state game commission today lured thousands of Pennsylvania fishermen to their favorite retreats as the season for bass opened.

Although many streams have been muddy the past several days they were clearing rapidly because of the absence of heavy storms over the week-end.

In addition to bass, lake trout, pickerel and pike perch came into season today. The bass season extends until November 30. Lake trout will be in season until September 29 and pickerel and pike perch will be legal until November 30.

Ray Mangrum Wins State Open Title

(International News Service)

HERSHEY, Pa., July 1.—Ray Mangrum, the Los Angeles pro who shaved par by two strokes to tour the 72 holes over Hershey's tricky course in 190, today wore Pennsylvania's open golf crown.

Clarence Clark, the blond Bloomfield, N. J., pro, who had been leading, faltered on the home stretch and ended one stroke behind Mangrum. He might have tied the score with a 12-inch put which rimmed the cup on the 18th hole.

Gene Kunes, of Norristown, ended third with 194. Felix Serafin, Scranton, Bob Barnett, Washington, D. C., and Clarence Ehresman, Eaglesmere, were tied in fourth place.

Only a few days remain until Sammy Crocetti, featherweight in the Jimmie Dime gym, opposes Jackie Wilson, Pittsburgh's colored Flash, in a 10 round bout at DuBois. 4TH OF JULY SALE!

Cut Your Motoring Costs With Goodrich Tires—Tubes—Batteries—Accessories

Act quick! SENSATIONAL VALUES

I'd Rather face a Thousand Spikes than another Blow-out— says MICKEY COCHRANE Mgr. of Detroit Tigers

NEW GOODRICH TIRE INVENTION SAVES MOTORISTS' LIVES!

THERE'S no better time to put real blow-out protection on your car than right now. With 4th of July and summer vacation driving ahead, stop and think about your tires. Read about this new tire invention which may save your life. Remember, thousands are killed or injured every year when blow-outs throw cars out of control.

Why tires blow out

At today's high speeds, terrific heat is generated inside the tire. Rubber and fabric separate. Blisters form. They grow bigger and bigger until—sooner or later—the tire blows out with a BANG! And it takes plenty of luck to keep you off the accident list.

But in the new Goodrich Safety Silvertown, the Life-Saver Golden Ply resists this heat—the great, unseen cause of these blow-outs. Rubber and fabric don't separate. Blisters don't form, and high-speed blow-outs don't get a chance to start.

Why try squeezing a few months' service out of tires that have seen better days when you and your family could be riding in safety tomorrow? Play safe. Put Goodrich (remember the name) Golden Ply Silvertowns on your car now. And remember, even though Silvertowns are the only tires that have Golden Ply blow-out protection—and give you months of extra mileage in the bargain—they cost no more than other standard tires.

Trading Slow Today As Traders Await Holding Company Outcome

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service Financial Writer

NEW YORK, July 1.—The stock market was quiet today as traders awaited the outcome of the fight over the holding company bill in the house.

Trading was slow with turnover at the rate of less than a million shares for the session.

Aside from a handful of issues which tended to enliven the dealings, price changes were limited to fractions.

Strength in wheat, which carried prices up more than a cent a bushel after early hesitancy, was somewhat offset as a market influence by the decline of more than 50 cents a bale in cotton.

Dealings Limited

Dealings in the utility shares were limited, but the undertone of the group was strong. Consolidated Gas, American Water Works, Columbia Gas and North American scored fractional gains.

There was little to feature the trading in the rail shares. Atchison staged an early flurry, getting up more than half point, but quieted down near the noon hour with its price virtually unchanged. The other carrier shares, including N. Y. Central, Southern Pacific, Great Northern and Northern Pacific, were merely steady.

Radio was an extremely active feature appearing on the tape in large blocks for a loss of about half a point.

U. S. Steel and other industrial and steel shares were quiet but firm in the face of indications that the steel industry's operating rate would fall quite sharply this week because of the July 4 holiday.

Mining shares were neglected, although International Nickel was somewhat easier.

Farm equipments were steady in sympathy with wheat, while food, oil, aviation and specialty shares marked time. Liquors continued in demand.

Miners Of State Continue Work

Postponement Of Strike By Leader Allows Men To Remain At Work

AGREEMENT IS EXTENDED MONTH

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 1.—Their expected strike postponed by the third successive truce, western Pennsylvania's 100,000 bituminous coal miners today resumed work in the underground recesses for at least another month.

All local unions in this district and adjacent territory were notified of the truce, reached following conferences between John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, and Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, in Washington. Terms of the previous agreement reached by the operators and miners were extended through July 31.

Little trouble is expected in the industry in this section, according to P. T. Fagan, president of district 5, U. M. W. A few minor disturbances in areas where dissatisfied miners are located may take place, however, it was pointed out.

"In my opinion, all of our local unions will back up their international officers in their renewal of the truce," Fagan said. "The truce was agreed to after President Roosevelt had intervened and it is necessary to give time for passage of the Guffey-Snyder coal control bill. That legislation, I firmly believe, will stabilize the industry and end all of our troubles at least for the time being."

All of the soft coal miners, numbering 450,000 throughout the country, had been prepared to walk out Saturday night when the truce renewal was suddenly announced. Commercial mines, and a majority of the "captive" mines, were not to be opened this week, and it was planned to use only skeletonized forces to protect mine property.

Hear Arguments For New Trial

McMahon And Emery Case Appeal Is Argued Before Court

Arguments for a new trial in the cases of David McMahon and M. Belle Emery, convicted of conspiracy in the June term of court, were heard today by Judges R. Lawrence Hildebrand and James A. Chambers. Decision was reserved until a later date.

Arguing for his clients Attorney James W. Rhodes cited a number of opinions showing that the procedure by which the grand jury found a true bill in conspiracy against the pair were advanced.

In support of his contentions Mr. Rhodes said: "While I agree that it may have no effect upon this appeal, yet I cannot help but say to your honors that it seems rather odd that no arrests were made in the fifth and eighth wards in these numbers raids. Long avenue was one of the worst places in the city and yet no arrests were made.

"Who was back of this return of the grand jury in which conspiracy was charged?"

At this point Judge James A. Chambers broke in and said: "If there is any doubt as to who was back of the grand jury's return we can clear that up. This court was back of it and is willing to take the responsibility for its actions. The numbers game had advanced to unbearable heights in New Castle and the court wanted all the agencies of law to break it up. If we were wrong in our procedure then we are willing to back up, but the court was responsible for the conspiracy charge and so instructed the grand jury."

But 'Twas Only Texas Horned Toad

Peculiar Package Has Court House Office Worried For Time

Visions of explosive bombs that would tear out half the court house were in the minds of employes in the office of Register and Recorder William R. Hanna today. Mental pictures of the court house columns sailing out over the street were envisioned and a few of the girls were all set to take off.

All of the excitement was occasioned by the arrival of a small package by mail. The postman delivered it on the desk and to the amazement of one of the girls she heard something scratching inside.

Maybe it was a Republican bomb.

It might be some lethal machine sent by a disgruntled Democrat.

In fear and trepidation the package was opened. Cautiously the string was taken off and just as cautiously the paper was unwrapped.

Out from the package stepped a Texas horned toad, sent to Mr. Hanna by his brother Arthur who resides in Texas.

Now Mr. Hanna is considering a campaign to name his horned toad. Something with a Democratic flavor will be appreciated and all suggestions should be sent to him.

One crass Republican has already suggested that the toad be named "New Deal." Asked why he replied that the toad didn't seem to know where it was going.
